FALL-DOHENY DEFENSE OPENS ONSLAUGHT

LONG SEARCH FOR MISSING GIRL AT END

Remains Of Wisconsin Young Woman, Who Disappeared September 9, Discovered Near Mount Sterling, Wis., By Posse Members--Suspect Held At An Illinois Jail.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The body of Clara Olson, missing since September 9, was found today near Mount Sterling, Wis., by members of an organized searching party.

Buried in a clump of leaves four miles from Mount Sterling, the body of the girl was recovered by searchers who had set out at daybreak to comb Crawford county with only the premonition of a bereaved father as assurance that the girl was dead. The body was found shortly before 11 o'clock.

The body of the girl was found a quarter mile west of the farm of Albert Olson, whose son, Erdman, sweetheart of the girl, is sought on a murder warrant. The farm of Olson, wealthy tobacco planter, who has maintained his 18-year-old son is innocent of the crime with which he is charged, lies between Rising Sun and Mount Sterling.

Coroner Goes To Scene.

Coroner Frank Hawley of Prairie Du Chien was advised of the finding of the body and has left for Mount Sterling.

Finding of the body came as a result of a search started by Chris Olson, father of the girl, who swore out the murder warrant for Erdman Olson November 26 and engaged private detectives to join in the hunt for his daughter.

Before leaving home the night of September 9, the girl had disclosed according to her father, that she was about to become a mother. The

WINSTON RESIGNS TREASURY OFFICE

Representative Ogden Mills, New York, To Become Under Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Garrard B. Winston, under secretary of the treasury, will resign soon and will be succeeded by Representative Ogden Mills of New York.

Announcement of the change was made today by Secretary Mellon, who said it would take place as soon as Mr. Mills felt he could leave his seat in congress.

The New York representative was defeated in November as the republican candidate for governor of New York, and he would automatically retire from the house on March 4. It is expected he will remain a member until the alien property bill, one of the first questions to be considered at the approaching session, is disposed of.

Mr. Winston, who took office three years ago, has expressed the desire to resume the practice of law in Chicago.

Pair Kidnaped By Rum Craft Still Captives

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—French rum runner Orsene J., with two kidnaped prohibition officials aboard, was believed nearing Havana or Nassau today.

No trace of the schooner which put to sea after overpowering Assistant Prohibition Administrator J. B. Matthews and a machinist's mate, has been found since she escaped in a gale Monday. Com. J. L. Brookway of the coast guard cutter 302 reported by radio today.

Commander Brookway informed O. D. Jackson, chief dry administrator for his district, that in the forty hours since her escape the Arsene J., had had ample time to reach either Havana or Nassau. A report that the cutter 302 had overtaken the schooner only to lose it again when a tow line broke was found to be untrue.

Meanwhile fear was expressed here that Matthews and the machinist's mate may have met with violence at the hands of the nine or ten men that comprise the Arsene's crew.

Buckner Undergoes Mastoid Operation

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Emory R. Buckner, United States attorney, prosecutor in the $7,000,000 conspiracy case against Harry M. Daugherty and Col. Thoams W. Miller, underwent a mastoid operation at the Manhattan Eye and Ear hospital Wednesday. He was reported to be resting comfortably

Administer Estate Of Man Murdered At Oklahoma City

A petition asking that the estate of Peter Abariotis, otherwise known as Peter Amos, be administered, was filed in County court Thursday morning by his brother-in-law, John Birbilis.

Abariotis died at Oklahoma City, Oct. 29, and is believed to have been murdered. His automobile was found burned about three miles outside of the city, and Abariotis was found dead, near the car. He had apparently been clubbed to death.

Robbery is thought to have been the motive, as all valuables had been removed from the body.

His estate is estimated at about $8,500. A part of the time he made his home in Lincoln, but was never in business here. Burial was in an Omaha cemetery. He was 33 years old.

Month Coldest In 15 Years and Wettest in 17

Lincoln has just lived through the coldest November in fifteen years and the wettest one in seventeen years, according to a summary of conditions here by the U. S. weather bureau.

The year 1909 boasts the only wetter November.

Although an excess of 2.91 inches in precipitation fell during the month, there still is an accumulated deficiency of 1.53 for the year.

The higsest temperature during November was 72, recorded on the fifth. The lowest was 7, reported on the seventh.

RUMOR DUDSCHUS QUITS POSITION

Was Only Deputy State Sheriff Under Bryan Carried Over.

Otto Dudschus, deputy state sheriff who has served in that capacity for nearly four years, both under former State Sheriff Tom Carroll and the present state sheriff, W. C. Condit, has resigned from that position according to a report being circulated at the state house Thursday morning.

Official confirmation of the rumor could not be obtained since both Dudschus and State Sheriff Condit were out of town. Condit has been in Reynolds, Neb. since Tuesday night, where he is attending the preliminary hearing of two men who are charged with robbery of a store at that place.

Governor McMullen was asked regarding the authenticity of the report and said, "I don't know how the matter stands now."

Dudschus is said to have tendered his resignation during the early part of October but it was not accepted at that time. It is not known what his plans for the future are.

Dudschus was the only member of the state sheriff's force under the democratic administration who was carried over by the McMullen administration. He has probably been the most active member of the entire force employed by Condit, having handled a large share of the liquor cases that have come before the department. He has been especially popular with the county sheriffs throughout the state.

WANT TO USE MORE BUSSES

Traction Company Asks Permission to Abandon Electric Car Service On East S and Bethany Lines.

APPLICATION SAYS MORE COACHES ON WAY

Changes In Routing Over Both Lines Are Requested In Petition Filed With State Railway Commission.

Abandonment of electric street car service on two more city routes, and the substitution of motor coach service, is now contemplated by the Lincoln Traction Co., which filed an amended petition with the state railway commission Thursday asking permission to discontinue the operation of cars on the East S and Vine street line and the Bethany line.

The company last week requested the commission to O. K. stoppage of electric cars on the North Twenty-third street and the university farm lines. A hearing on that application was set for Friday, but in view of the supplemental filing this has been put over until Friday, December 10, at 10:30 a. m., when all the proposals will be heard together.

General manager E. R. Heiny the Traction Co., announces that six more coaches have been ordered for early delivery, in addition to the eight which have already been received. When the new ones arrive, the company will be in position to supplant the East S and Bethany trolley cars with the gasoline vehicles. Its present application is to clear the way for this change.

CALL DOCTORS IN MANDAMUS SUIT

Answer Long Hypothetical Questions By Ochsner's Attorney.

Seeks Dental License On Ground Failed Through Rivalry.

If conditions surrounding the examination in practical work, given Rheinhardt Ochsner, applicant for a writ of mandamus compelling the state dental board to issue him a license to practice, were as described in three hypothetical questions propounded by Ochsner's attorneys Thursday morning, he should have been granted his license at that time, Dr. W. Clyde Davis and Dr. James I. Davis, Lincoln dentists testified.

The three questions were long—the first being about 1,500 words and the others about 1,000 words each, and were all supported by facts given in evidence, according to George Mann, attorney for Ochsner.

Assistant Attorney General Ayers objected on the grounds that the questions assumed facts not in evidence, but his objections were overruled by District Judge Wheeler.

Five other Lincoln dentists, Drs. George M. Byrne, Fred G. Thomas, J. V. Farrington, L. P. Davis and Glenn Warren, were present and it was understood that they would be called by Ochsner's attorneys as experts. Their testimony was expected to be substantially the same as Drs. Davis, as regarded the hypothetical questions.

Found Fillings Satisfactory.

Dr. W. Clyde Davis, formerly dean of the college of dentistry and author of a widely-used text book on dentistry, testified that he had examined the fillings made by Ochsner which were pronounced defective by the examining board, and had found them satisfactory.

Ochsner, in his application, claims that he was failed in "practical work" by the examining board not through any defect in his work, but because of a prejudice on the part of Dr. Fredinand Griess of Sutton, one of his examiners.

Doctor Griess, he claims, wanted Ochsner and his brother to buy his practice at Sutton, which they refused to do.

The examiners, Doctor Cox, of Omaha, and Doctor Griess, stated in testimony that Ochsner had been failed because he failed to discover decay in a tooth he was working on.

Ochsner's testimony, and that of other dentists called to the stand was that the decayed spot was not decay at all, but a discolored porcelain filling next to the gum.

There was some argument Thursday morning as to what the proper method of filling the tooth should have been. Ochsner claimed that he understood that the porcelain filling was to be removed by another dentist, and that he was only to make a "class three" filling, as instructed.

HALL TRIAL NEAR AN END

Clarence F. Case Follows Robert H. McCarter In Summing Up For Defense In Somerville, N. J., Murder Hearing.

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR SIMPSON CRITICISED

Claimed James Mills In Better Position To Know Of Wife's Love Affair With Pastor Than Mrs. Hall—Goes To Jury Friday.

COURTHOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Clarence E. Case followed Robert H. McCarter in summing up for the defense in the Hall-Mills case today. He started his address immediately after the former attorney general had completed his argument, begun yesterday. Mr. Case opened his speech by criticising the methods of the prosecution, terming them "wasty, unfair and vindictive."

This was the note on which Mr. McCarter closed his summing up, saying "if the level of the New Jersey bar has sung to that level, then thank God I am old.

Says Slurs Cost.

The veteran attorney had referred to what he termed an effort by Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, to cast slurs upon the parentage of William Stevens, one of the defendants.

"If his statement had been made south of the Mason Dixon line, he would have been knocked down," he said.

In closing his summing up, McCarter again said James Mills, husband of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, who was slain with the Rev. Edward W. Hall, was in a better position to know of the love affair between the minister and choir singer than was Mrs. Hall.

He also said that, while Mrs. Hall had been attacked by the state for what was characterized as inadequate spreading of an alarm for her husband on the day after he disappeared, Mills, whose wife was also missing, did absolutely nothing about it.

The case was expected to go to the jury some time Friday.

Fire Breaks Out While Family Away

Fire that started in the home of Frank Basson, 53' North Nineteenth street, while he and his family were away from hom this afternoon, was put out before much damage had been done when neighbors sounded the alarm. A basket of coal set next to the stove in a living room blazed up. A hole 3 feet in diameter was burned in the floor.

Death Caused By Dropping Lump of Coal Upon Foot

OMAHA, Dec. 2.—(AP) — Herman Racusin, 64, a cobbler, died today of blood poison caused by dropping a piece of coal on his foot. He paid little attention to the injured member after the first pain of dropping the coal on his foot had stopped. He worked regularly for a week after the accident and last Saturday walked 22 blocks to church. The foot began to pain, however, and it was discovered that the lump of coal had ruptured a blood vessel and caused poisoning. The leg was amputated, but this measure failed to save Racusin's life. He had operated a shoe repair shop here for eighteen years.

AGENT LANDS ON DUMONT; ASSAULT CASE UP FRIDAY

Columbus Man Faces Charge As Result Of Scrap At State House.

O'Sullivan Says Insurance Head Held Grudge Against Him.

Resentment over State Insurance Commissioner J. R. Dumont's refusal to issue him an insurance agent's license led Mike F. O'Sullivan of Columbus to make a physical assault on the former at his office in the capitol Wednesday afternoon, which was followed by O'Sullivan's arrest and his later release on bond, to appear Friday before Judge Chappell in the municipal court.

Mr. Dumont was knocked senseless by a powerful blow of O'Sullivan's fist on the right side of his face. After flooring the insurance commissioner, his assailant continued the attack, it said, and when several women employes in the insurance bureau ran into Dumont's office and tried to pull him off, O'Sullivan is said to have struck one of them, Mrs. Fay Davis, and knocked her down also.

At this stage of the fray, Deputy State Sheriff Lester Hasson was summoned from his office just across the hall, by another feminine clerk in the insurance bureau. O'Sullivan was still pummeling Dumont, who was on the floor face downward in a semi-crouching position, when Hasson appeared and pulled him off. The Columbus man was taken to the courthouse and turned over to the sheriff's custody, while Deputy County Attorney Max Towle drew up a complaint against him charging assault with intent to commit great bodily injury.

In Belligerent Mood.

According to Insurance Commission Dumont, the assault was com-

Dr. Slattery Asks Leave of Absence; Lewis Takes Place

Dr. W. H. Slattery assistant superintendent of the city health department, was given an indefinite leave of absence from duty Thursday morning by Commissioner Wright. He was relieved at his own request, "because the rapid growth of the city demands that I devote more time to my private practice." Dr. Slattery asked for sixty to ninety days leave effective December 15.

Dr. George E. Lewis is to take Dr. Slattery's place as city physician.

Given $1 Damages In Slander Suit; Woman Appeals

A verdict of $1 damages, which required her to pay her own costs, returned by a jury in Kearney county, failed to satisfy Mrs. Ida C. Long, plaintiff in a $40,000 slander action against Jorgen P. Jorgensen, and she has brought the case on appeal to the Supreme court of Nebraska.

Both the plaintiff and the defendant live at Minden. Mrs. Long, who is a widow 4 5years old, as she says in her petition, named four causes of action against Jorgensen.

Asks Damages For Injuries Received In Auto Accident

Oliver Townsend filed a petition in District court this afternoon asking $25,000 damages from George O. Mendell for injuries received in an automobile accident August 22 which occcrred about eight and one-half miles south of Lincoln on ehe Fourteenth street road.

Townsend charges Mendell with negligence, speeding and improper lights. Townsend, who is twenty-four years old, says he received permanent injuries in the accident, suffering concussion of the brain and injuries to the head and face.

Wymore Has Big Paving Program

Secretary Leonard Densmore of the state railway commission was at Wymore Wednesday evening, helping the city council there in making a cleanup of the 1926 paving projects in that city. Mr. Densmore was city attorney there prior to his recent appointment as secretary to the railway commission.

The council Wednesday evening issued $91,000 of district paving bonds and $55,000 of intersection bonds, to cover the cost of completed work. There is under construction at this time other paving to cost $50,000 more.

The new pavenfent at Wymore is an improved type of asphalt, warranted not to crack. The top layer, 1½ inches thick, is placed on a 3½ inch black base, instead of the concrete base ordinarily used.

Second Matrimonial Craft Launched By Comedian On Rocks, But Movie Actor Trying To Salvage The Wreck.

WIFE'S GRANDFATHER SAYS ILL TREATMENT

Screen Star Expresses Surprise At Mate's Action and Says Reconciliation Overtures Have Already Been Made.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The second matrimonial ship to be launched by Charles Chaplin is on the rocks, but the motion picture star is making efforts to salvage the wreck.

This first became known yesterday when Mrs. Lila Grey Chaplin

HOLD PAIR OF RUNAWAY GIRLS

Said to Have Left Homes At Concordia, Kansas.

Registered At Lincoln High —One Admits Passing Checks.

The ambitions of two 17-year old girls were thwarted Thursday morning when Police Detective Peter Meyer interrupted their registration at the Lincoln high school and took them both to the city jail, where they are held pending the arrival of officials from Concordia, Kas.

The two girls will be taken back to Concordia, police said, because one of them has been passing a number of bad checks. Moreover, their homes are in Concordia, and that is where they should be, Captain of Detectives Walter Anderson said. It is not known if the couple will be prosecuted.

Lucille Davies, 17, and Dene Walker, also 17, told Captain Anderson the whole story Thursday morning.

"We couldn't stand it in Concordia any longer," Lucille said. "The town is too small. We both wanted to be nurses, and so we thought we would come to Lincoln to finish high school and then enter hospital training.

Took Grandmother's Car.

"Monday evening I took my grandmother's Ford coupe and Dene and I started out. We had some money, and our clothes, and had decided to stop at a friend's home in Lincoln, and to enter the high school here. We are both seniors."

The girls arrived in Lincoln about 2 a. m. Wednesday, and went direct to the home of Mrs. Frank Frost, 1200 South Sixteenth, where they were given a room. Wednesday was spent in sight seeing, and Thursday morning Lucille and Dene, together with Mrs. Frost's daughter, who is a student in the high school, went to the office of the high school.

GOVERNMENT RESTS ITS OIL LEASE CASE

Prosecution Winds Up Its Showing Against Former Secretary Of Interior And Oil Millionaire On Charges Of Conspiracy--Senator Walsh Testifies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Defense in the oil lease conspiracy trial today heaped upon the jury the first of its mountain of evidence designed to show the naval oil leases were advantageous and a prerequisite to national defense.

They hoped this testimony will divert the finger of accusation from former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, the oil magnate.

Frank J. Hogan and Wilton J. Lambert, heading defense counsel, sought to convince the jury of the validity of the Doheny leases through testimony of H. Foster Bain, former director of the bureau of mines under the Wilson, Harding and Coolidge administrations.

Bain indicated Fall had turned over to him, Assistant Secretary of the Interior Finney and A. W. Ambrose, former chief technologist, the task of procuring vast fuel oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as an integral part of the navy's war plans.

Asked About Movements.

Hogan asked about Bain's movements in December, 1921, when Fall was in Three Rivers, New Mexico, and developed that the former mine bureau chief and Admiral J. K. Robison of the navy bureau of engineering, were doing the active work in seeking an exchange of crude oil for fuel oil.

Bain made a trip west in December, 1921, at which time he sought to interest seven concerns in the Pearl Harbor project—Standard Oil of California, Pan-American Pete, Union Oil, Associated Oil, Pacific Oil, General Pete and J. G. White & Co.

Bain said on this trip he stopped off at Three Rovers and spent 24 hours with Fall.

"I reported to him what I had done, and told him how complex the situation was over what originally had been anticipated," said Bain.

Rail Workers In East Are Given Boost

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Trainmen, conductors, baggagemen and flagmen of eastern railroads were granted a 7 1-2 per cent wage increase today by the arbitration board which has been hearing both sides of the wage dispute. The award affects employes on both passenger and freight trains.

$5,000 Claim As Result Of Injury

A claim for $5,000 against the city was filed with the city clerk Wednesday by Margaret Kelly, 913 O street. She sets out in the claim that she was permanently injured Nov. 2, through the negligence of the city, county and the Yellow Taxi company. It is alleged that the woman fell at the Second ward polling place at 1018 M street and fractured her skull, injured an eye, lost the hearing of one ear, was unconscious for days and otherwise so seriously injured that she is still confined to a bed at St. Elizabeth's hospital. Greese on the floor caused the accident, the claim declares.

DESCRIBES WORK OF WORLD COURT

The world court has its defects but it is best to judge the tribunal from the viewpoint of its accomplishments, according to Norman Hill, professor of political science at the University of Nebraska, who was the speaker at the luncheon of the Lions club Thursday noon at the chamber of commerce. The court has done a great good, he said.

The court is not 100 per cent perfect, Mr. Hill said, but this is due to the imperfections of the men who were responsible for its organization. "They were looking to the public and considering too much the effect their actions would have while the work was under way," he added.

According to Mr. Hill in the few years the court has been in operation it has returned eighteen verdicts and all of them have been put into operation. This is true, he said, even of the one that was the object of greater criticism than all others. These decisions, he added, have indicated that the court is making an effort to make its ruling fairly and without regard to the size of the nations parties to the dispute.

WEHENKEL STILL UPON THE STAND

Letters Written By Defendant To His Wife Are Not Admitted.

MADISON, Neb., Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—A large part of the morning testimony in the murder trial of John Wehenkel for the slaying of Arthur Carrico was devoted to identification of the defendant's signature to letters alleged to have been written by him to his wife. The letters were offered by the state.

Visibly perturbed and nervous, Wehenkel showed the strain of the vigorous cross examination to which he was subjected yesterday afternoon and through the early part of this morning's session.

The contents of the letters reflected on the morals of Wehenkel. Following the contest over identification of the letters a vain attempt was made to make them a part of the evidence. The objection of defense attorneys, however, was sustained on the grounds that letters between a husband and wife are privileged communications.

County Judge Recker was the next witness. Effort to introduce records from his office that the former husband of the defendant's wife was arrested for wife and child abandonment, failed when the court ruled that such testimony was irrelevant.

H. Halderson, Newman Grove, testified that Wehenkel had consulted him on numerous occasions in an effort to have Carrico arrested for forcing attentions upon the defendant's wife.

Mudgett Chosen Marshal; Dakota Solons' Ire Up

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. —(AP) —Appointment of C. W. Mudgett by President Coolidge as United States marshal of North Dakota has aroused the state's two senators, Nye and Frazier, republicans, and they plan to protest to the white house.

They hold that it is not fair to appoint their outspoken political opponent to one of the choice federal offices in the state and that their prestige as senators has been impaired.

If the president insists on the appointment they plan to oppose Mudgett's confirmation by the senate.

MISS CLENDENIN WEDS EX-BARON

Wealthy Young Woman Evades Virtual Imprisonment to Marry Russian.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Miss Florence Clendenin, 26-year-old daughter of Joseph Clendenin, vice president of the American Smelting & Refining Co., was married at 8:30 o'clock last night in the Little Church Around the Corner to George Tornow a New York stock broker and a former Russian baron, says the New York American.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Clendenin telephoned her parents, who are said to have objected to the marriage, but upon being told both were away from home, left following message with the butler: "Tell them I am going to be married within fifteen minutes and I would like to have them at my wedding."

Evades Virtual Imprisonment.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Evading virtual imprisonment in the family home, Florence Marjorie Clendenin, 26, daughter of Joseph Clendenin, vice president of the American Smelting & Refining Co., left the family mansion at Ardsley, N. Y., Wednesday afternoon, rushed to New York City and took out a license to marry the Russian baron, George Tornow, the New York American says in a copyright story.

The couple were reported by the paper as cruising about the city in a taxicab last night seeking a minister to wed them after a jurist at the request of Mr. Clendenin refused to marry them.

The elopement climaxes two weeks of "virtual imprisonment," says the American, enforced upon Miss Clendenin since the time she announced to her family her intentions of marrying the baron, who at one time was a member of the Russian embassy in Paris.

Baron Tornow's first wife, Baroness Kiriakoff, was a lady in waiting at the Russian court and died in 1918. The baron is a stock broker with offices in downtown New York.

Graccio Houlder Gives a Lecture About Australia

"Australia" was the subject of the lecture by Graccio Houlder, a native social service worker of that country, to about 200 people at the First Christian church Wednesday evening. The meeting was sponsored by the Lancaster county W. C. T. U. In addition to telling of her home land, Miss Houlder also stressed the need of prohibition there and the necessity for its maintenance here.

She declared that the establishment of prohibition in the United States meant the passing of another milestone in the road of progress. In addition, prohibition has meant increased efficiency on the part of the worker and on the quantity and the quality of the product, she said.

Miss Houlder told of her work in Australia and described it in contrast to the United States. Social conditions in America are much better than in the "isolated continent," she believes, because of prohibition.

The first time Australia came into world significance was at the Straits of Dardanelles during the world war when the soldiers from that commonwealth fought so valiantly. From the nuntil now, Miss Houlder said, Australia has been pushing to the front.

The similarities of this continent to the United States were described She told of the perpetual summer, the lack of snow and even frost, of the constant greenness of the leaves and other interesting features

More Aliens Than Ever Were Forced To Leave in 1926

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A total of 10,904 aliens found to be unlawfully within the United States during the last fiscal year were deported to their home countries, Secretary of Labor Davis announced Wednesday in advance sheets from his annual report. This is greater than the number deported in any previous year and was 1,400 more than were deported in 1925

Aliens debarred from entering the country numbered 20,550. Nearly 86 per cent were turned back at the international land boundaries, 15,808 from Canada and 1,755 from Mexico, the others being principally stowaways and seamen trying to enter without passports. Of the deported aliens, Europe received 5,088; Mexico, 2,588; Canada, 2,102 and Central and South America, 430.

Seventy-five per cent of the aliens who emigrated to their native countries after an average residence of five to ten years in the United States, the report says were in the prime of life from 16 to 44 years of age, with males outnumbering the women by 3 to 1. The emigrant aliens during 1926 totalled 76,932.

FATHER TAKES BLAME FOR SON TURNING TO CRIME; DIDN'T MAKE PAL OF HIM

Struggling to repress his emotion, Dr. I. L. Odell, of Des Moines, stood before District Judge Shepherd Wednesday afternoon and endeavored to shoulder the blame for his son's wrong doing.

His boy, only 21, was sentenced to one to twenty years in the state reformatory on a forgery charge a few moments later.

Judge Shepherd asked if anyone had anything to say before he pronounced sentence on the two young men, Odell and Keith Washburn.

Assistant County Attorney Young told the court that Odell's father was present and he was asked by the court to come forward.

The boy stood before the judge with his head bowed, not looking at his father, who in a broken voice told the court that he took all the blame for his son's wrong-doing.

"Oh, you must make a pal of your boy when you can, or else he will get away from you. It's my fault. I've left my boy to fight the world for himself. He slipped away from me when I could have made him want my company."

The father told of the boy's early marriage, without his consent. "He couldn't have marriaed a finer girl," he said, "but he wasn't ready. I thought."

The young wife stood in the court room, sobbing quietly to herself.

When sentence was pronounced she turned, walked into the sheriff's office and fainted, crying "I can't stand it."

The two boys admitted that they had planned to make a business of forging checks, and that they had expected to have the names of firms printed on checks to make them easier to pass.

Judge Shepherd held that their apparent intelligence should have kept them from lawbreaking, but he complimented the father upon his willingness to carry the blame.

Boy Justified In Shooting to Save Mother, Jury Says

CASPER, Wyo., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Lyle Derr, 13 years old, was justified in shooting his stepfather, John Patton, to save his mother from injury, a coroner's jury decided here Wednesday. Patton died as the result of a wound inflicted by the boy Sunday evening

Patton was beating and choking his mother, the boy testified, and she called to him to get the gun.

"Dad, if you don't stop, I'm going to shoot you," he said he warned his stepfather. Then he fired, intending, he declared, merely to frighten Patton

Former Stock Yards Head at Kansas City Is Dead In Boston

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Charles F. Morse, 87, former president of the Kansas City Stock Yards Co., died at his home here yesterday

Most of Mr. Morse's life was spent in the west, where he was well known in railroad circles. After the Civil war, in which he served as an officer, he became general supply agent for the Burlington & Missouri River railroad. He was later appointed superintendent of the road in Nebraska.

In 1874 he went with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad as general superintendent. He resigned this position in 1879 to become general superintendent of the Kansas City Stock Yards Co., of which he became president, serving in that office until his retirement in 1913

Mr. Morse was also identified with the promotion of the Kansas City Belt railway and was a former president of the Metropolitan Railway Co. of Kansas City.

Present Half A Billion Dollar Christmas Gift

NEW ORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Golden harbingers of a rich Christmas in the United States were the distribution Wednesday of December first dividend checks and interest payments of nearly $400,000,000.

Half a billion dollars more may be the record-breaking measure of the January 1 disbursements that will go to the security holders of the nation, now said to number 15,000,000.

Wall street anticipates that around $1,000,000,000 will be paid out within the next thirty days, for there are also large payments to be made on December 15. Over 200 corporations made payments Wednesday.

Bankers were unable to estimate what proportion of this interest and dividend disbursement will go for Christmas buying It would run into many millions, it was said.

One of the heaviest payments was that of the Penn railroad, which distributed to more than 138,000 stockholders checks aggregating $8,655,000. Another large distribution in a few days will be that of Standard Oil company of New Jersey, which has 20,000,000 shares outstanding

FIND SECRET FORMULA.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Unused for more than 600 years, a secret formula for the production of salts of copper, found in one of Roger Bacon's alchemical works, has bee approved effective by University of Pennsylvania chemists. This was revealed last night at a memorial meeting for the late Dr. William Romain Newbold, professor of intellectual and moral philosophy at the university, and gave verification of Dr. Newbold's translation of the difficult cipher in which the Franciscan monk and scientist of the Thirteenth century wrote his works.

HASTINGS FUNERAL.

(Special to The Star)

HASTINGS, Neb., Dec. —Short funeral services were conducted here Wednesday morning for Mrs H. H Henderson who passed away at the hospital after an illness of about two months. Mrs. Henderson had lately come to Hastings with her husband, a professor in high school, to make her home. Burial will be at Shawnee, Wis.

FOR

Sour Stomach

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour-ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

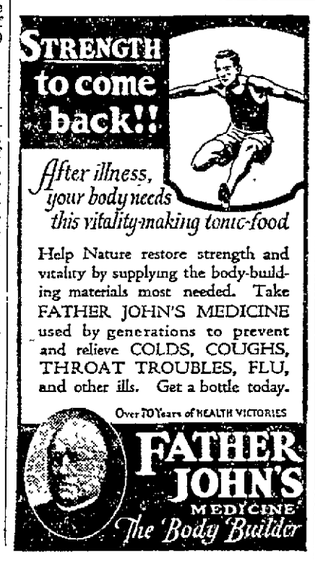

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cents and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Advertisement.

Insurance Men To Elect Officers At Meeting Saturday

Officers will be elected for the ensuing year at the meeting of the Lincoln Life Underwriters association at the Grand hotel Saturday evening at 6 o clock.

Officials of the state insurance federation will be guests and the following will be on the speaking program: Frank E Helvey, secretary of the federation. M. A. Hyde, chairman of the insurance subdivision of the chamber of commerce; John R Dumont, state insurance commissioner, E. J. Faulkner, and W. E. Straub.

Steward Asks For Support Of River Channel

Calling for support of the rivers and harbors bill now pending before congress, Secretary C. B. Steward of the Nebraska Farm Bureau asserts in a statement issued today that "senators who oppose this program are negligent of the interests of their constituency."

Improvement of the river from Kansas City northward is the big need just now, he says. Plans have already been laid for a 9 foot channel as far north as Sioux City. An amendment has been proposed that would make communities north of Kansas City pay special assessments for improvement work, and then guarantee them only temporary improvements.

"This is a very unfair provision," Mr. Steward contends, "and has never been imposed on the people of any other section in the development of navigable waterways. The establishment of navigation on the upper Missouri river is of just as much importance to the progress of the nation as a whole as the opening of navigation to any other region of such vast national resources."

Eureka Is Winner Grand Award at Sesquicentennial

The Eureka "High-Vacuum" cleaner was awarded the grand prize for electric cleaners by the international jury of awards at the Sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia according to word received at the local offices, 1906 M street. This is the highest of all awards obtainable for electric cleaners.

This is the seventh victory won by the Eureka cleaner. The contest took into account the effectiveness of celaning, simplicity of design and type of construction.

Chapter Twenty-eight.

Eddie Costello staggered and his weakness softened, a bit, the aggressive advantage her fear had given him. The pressure of his body as he leaned against her filled her with dread—disgust. Grimly she steeled her heart. This was going to take all of her courage, all of her wit. At any cost, any sacrifice, she had to keep the menace of Eddie Costello away from her husband.

Even at this crisis, when her whole future seemed to hang in the balance, she found herself softly throbbing with a deep current of devotion for Kent. Now, as never before, she felt the depths of her love. Slowly, a peculiar, remorseless desperation began to generate in her breast.

"I think I'm going to faint." Eddie Costello said in a voice so low that it scarcely reached her ears Her arms bore his heavy weight.

"You mustn't! You've got to buck up . . . for a few minutes longer"

She felt his body grow taut with responsive effort.

"Don't try to trick me and call the cops!" he said grimly. "You can't get away with it."

Her mind was as busy as a hive of bees swarming. The need was desperate, urgent; in the stress of the moment she arrived at a quick, definite decision. The empty garage on the property, a hundred yards from the house, had a small attic bedroom for a chauffeur. Justin Kent, as yet, had neither car nor chauffeur. In this emergency, the upstairs room offered an immediate solution Later, when she had time to think calmly, she would plan better.

Eddie Costello leaned on her with almost overpowering weight, but she managed, step by step, to get him along. An electric switch inside the door of the garage gave them light Every ounce of her strength was necessary to assist him up the narrow dusty stairs to the little room with its rumpled quilts on a narrow iron bedstead.

Stretched out, Eddie Costello seemed thinner than Connie had ever thought him before His cheeks were sunken; dark shadows, like pools, stood under his eyes For a time he lay with his eyes closed, his chest moving slightly with a slow, labored breathing Quite suddenly he opened his eyes spoke to her in a hollow voice.

"Never mind about getting a doctor for me It's too dangerous He might tip off the police. There's always a reward, you know I think the leg will get well by itself, in a couple of weeks Can I have a drink of water?"

She went to the small adjoining bathroom, washed a glass and drew him cold water prom the pipe. Eddie gulped it greedily.

"Sleep—good God, how I need sleep!" he said, feebly

His eyes closed again A streak of natural wisdom told her that for the present, rest was the thing he needed most Perhaps it would calm him Now he was almost delirious . . . dangerous.

"You can sleep with a clear mind now as long as you live," she told him in a low voice. "I'll see you tomorrow."

She was quite close to the bed Eddie captured on eof her hands in a feeble grasp, and tried to press it to his lips, but she drew it away instinctively.

"You're an angel, Kid," he breathed.

A moment later she had turned off the light, was downstairs and speedily crossing the lawn toward the house.

Once more she was in her own happily furnished bedroom. A quickening fear that Justin Kent, by some accident, might have discovered her absence, caused her sharp worry and she glided down the hall to his door and stood listening outside. If Justin knew, she realized excitedly, a deadly climax might develop immediately. Time was what she needed . . time! After a moment her ear was able to detect the steady breathing of deep sleep from within . . . temporarily all was well.

A passing, conflicting emotion tore at her power of decision as she returned to her room and threw herself on the bed. In all the world, she imagined, no woman ever before had been enmeshed in such a hopeless snarl of circumstances.

This—this was her wedding night with Justin Kent!

Tomorrow . . what would tomorrow bring? Shaken inwardly with a terror that sickened her soul, Connie crept noiselessly to her own room.

Chapter Twenty-Nine.

Connie slept with a light, surface slumber that left her but slightly rested in the morning Across the breakfast table she thought Justin Kent's attitude was noticeably strained, a trifle aloof. The fact that Eddie Costello, wounded and a fugitive, was hiding in the garage—that he had appeared at the culminating moment of her new life with Justin Kent—had put Connie's every nerve on mettle.

Now, in the full flood of daylight, with a fresh bowl of roses in the centre of the table, she felt she would be better able to handle the difficult situation than she had been the night before, when her emotions had been stretched to the breaking point.

She had tried to explain to Justin Kent the terrible shock that caused her to break away from his embrace in her room the night before . . . made a plea that she was a prey to nerves. He had accepted her explanation apparently—she had no means of knowing his real impression.

Now, facing him in daylight, none of the previous night's glamor remained; he was as unromantic as ever—the same slightly rumpled hair, the same thoughtful, careworn face

"I want to explain about last night —" she said with a desire to bolster up her original explanation.

Whatever the outcome of the strange situation, she realized that under no circumstances must her husband learn the truth If there was deceit in her attitude, it was completely overbalanced by the necessity of safeguarding him from the menace of Eddie Costello.

"Your explanation last night was sufficient," Justin Kent said with a faint trace of coldness.

Connie searched his face; thought she detected the shadow of a hurt.

"My explanation satisfied you?"

"Yes."

"But the way I left you—it must have seemed strange!"

"Not at all. It is a lady's privilege. I believe to change her mind, isn't it?"

"Do you think I merely—changed my mind?"

Bitterness was so alien to the nature of Justin Kent that a gentle note colored the tone of his voice.

"What else could I think? At one moment you were in my arms and I was elevated to a pinnacle of happiness beyond anything I had ever dreamed. The next instant you tore yourself away from me. You pushed me from you as thought I had suddenly become repulsive to you. Quite evidently there was a change of mind. You told me that you were nervous and unstrung. I accept the explanation. It is difficult for me, however, to fathom a state of mind that can be so indecisive."

The sheer precision of his words revealed to Connie's acute mind the deep wound he was trying to conceal. His conclusion, she was able to see was the only natural one—that she was flighty . . incurably fickle

"Have I ever seemed that kind of a person to you—a girl who could or would pretend to be in love?"

His eyes looked at her steadily, and for the first time she noticed that there was something of deep will in them; something akin to stubbornness.

"I do not see that we need to pursue the subject further, my dear," he said. "Please understand, I do not think that you wilfully attempted to play with my affections. But love should be whole-hearted—not a game of hide and seek."

Slowly Connie's heart began to chill.

"You mean that you don't believe I love you?"

"I think you think you do—if you know what I mean." Justin Kent said thoughtfully. "I want to be fair to you, and I want to be fair to myself. I think since last night some kind of a change has come over me —a new door seemed to have been opened in my life. Do you remember what you said to me, yesterday?"

Momentarily Connie's mind was a blank.

"I don't know what you mean—"

"You said you wanted to make your whole life a prayer of service to me—"

"I meant it, too, Justin!"

"I know you did, dear girl, and that's why I want to be so very gentle with you. I'm older than you Connie and it may be that you have mistaken what you, perhaps, think of as gratitude for love. Perhaps that accounts for your nervous breakdown last night. Connie . . . I love you so much that rather than hold you to a loveless marriage, I would release you—at once. I don't blame you—I try to understand . . Do you want to be free?"

Beet Growers Of South Dakota Ask Rail Facilities

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A conference between sugar beet growers of western South Dakota and officials of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad looking to extension of a railroad line into the Vale region of the Belle Fourche irrigation district to encourage production of sugar beets, has been set for Friday.

The beet growers seek extension of the railroad line from Newell, S D, to Vale and they have the promise of the Utah, Idaho Sugar Beet Co., which will be represented at the conference, that a sugar factory will be established in the newly opened region if the railroad line is extended

In the irrigation district of 200,000 acres, more than 3,000 acres of sugar beets were raised this year and growers have pledges of 8,700 acres next year if the railroad spur and factory are set up. At present only 75,000 acres of the 200,000 under irrigation are cultivated

The nearest sugar beet factory at present is at Scottsbluff, Neb., and growers, who combine stock raising with their farming activities, seek a factory nearby principally so that they can recover the best pulp and the tops for stock feeding.

BULL TERRORIZES DALLAS.

DALLAS, Tex, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A wild Brahma bull terrorized the crowded streets of Dallas Wednesday before it was shot and killed by a deputy sehriff. The animal jumped an eight foot fence at a slaughter plant, was chased through river bottoms for an hour and then tore through the downtown section, upsetting automobiles and driving pedestrians to cover. Several persons were slightly injured in dashing to places of safety.

LEARN WANTS OF WEST NEBRASKA

Legislators Gather For Conference and to Hear Suggestions.

Constituents Present Pleas For Legislation Affecting Selves.

CHADRON, Neb., Dec. 2.—By the Associated Press.—An increase of 1 cent to the present 2 cent state gasoline tax was advocated by Arthur Bowring, Merriman, state representative, before the Western Nebraska legislators in session here Wednesday. He expressed the opinion that the state gasilen tax has been of inestimable value to the Nebraska highway development.

A plea for the next state legislature to pass an enabling act that will uphold zoning ordinances in the larger Nebraska cities was among the other salient features of the legislative meeting.

L. A. Goins, Alliance city manager, declared that adequate zoning of Nebraska cities is impracticable until the late legislature passes an enabling act that will sustain zoning ordinances passed by the city councils. Practically all opposition to city zoning, Mr. Goins said, is due to lack of information by the public.

Numerous revisions of, and additions to the existing state school laws were advocated by Mrs. Alice Rosch, Dawes county superintendent, who represented rural school interests of western Nebraska at the meeting.

School Law Changes.

Among changes advocated in the present state school aid law was reduction of the number of sections required by school districts for eligibility to state aid from twelve sections to nine. Valuations of the districts and not the sizes should be the basis, the superintendent contended The belief that weak districts should not be perpetuated by state aid also was expressed.

A state board of education which would select the state school superintendents and county boards to select county superintendents also were advocated by the rural school interests.

A teacher tenure law to eliminate the annual changes of teachers was proposed as also was a law which would insure more uniform distribution of school taxes over the state. An increase from six months to seven months for minimum school attendance was asked.

Official recording of cattle brands to avoid duplication was favored by A. Rock, Cody, who represented the Western Nebraska cattle interests.

An increase of appropriations for the first Nebraska state park near Chadron was asked by W. P. Rooney, Chadron, who favored the erection of a state lodge in the park The park was visited by 90,000 persons last summer, Rooney said.

Money for Normals.

President R. I. Elliott of the Chadron Normal college declared that student attendance had increased 25 per cent and he asked for an adequate increase in the appropriations for state schools.

E. P. Wilson of Chadron, state representative, presided at the legislative meeting which was held at the Chadron Normal college.

Western Nebraska legislators who attended the meeting were Dwight Griswold, Gordon, senator; C. W. Johnston, Potter, senator; O. O. Johnston, Gordon, representative; W. M. Barbour, Scottsbluff, representative; Arthur Bowring, Merriman, representative; B R. Cowlter, Bridgeport, representative;; D. E. Purinton, Alliance, representative.

A state experimental farm to be located near Sidney, in Cheyenne county, was asked by C. W. Johnson, Potter, who declared that western Nebraska agricultural interests need an experimental "dry farm" in addition to the present irrigation farm at Mitchell.

The legislators were entertained at luncheon by the Chadron chamber of commerce and a banquet was given for them at the Chadron Normal college last night.

The purpose of the meeting, it was stressed, was not to form a legislative bloc, but merely to survey the legislative needs of wsetern Nebraska.

Indian Prince Pays $24,000 For Big Jewel

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The "Golden Dawn," which ranks fortieth among the famous diamonds of the world, was sold at Christie's Wednesday for 4,950 pounds, or about $24,000, a figure much under expectations. The purchaser was Aga Khan, wealthy Indian prince.

The Golden Dawn is a circular stone, named for its rich amber color, flashing the myriad lights of a summer dawn. It weighs sixty-one and one-half carats, and was discovered by Capt. C. R. Lucas near Kimberly, South Africa, in 1913. In its rough state, before cutting, it weighed 183 carats. It had remained the property of Captain Lucas until yesterday's sale.

Other famous diamonds have realized enormous prices at public sales. The record is $2,000,000 for the Victoria diamond of 180 carats, purchased by the Nizan of Hyderabad.

Longwcrth Says Money Bills To Be Passed Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Quick action on the bill to return alien property was forecast Wednesday by Speaker Longworth during a call at the white house.

He saw a possibility that the question might be disposed of by Christmas.

The speaker found appropriation bills at a more advanced stage than such measures have been on the eve of a congressional session, with prospects of quick passage. As to tax and farm legislation, he was not prepared to commit himself.

A measure which he thought would be acted upon is that for increasing the pay of federal judges.

NICKLES HEAD OF LOCAL REALTORS

D. W. Hayes Elected Vice-President and A. H. Robertson Treasurer.

Eager Asks Eor Widening of Fifteenth North of Capitol.

Jess Nickles was elected president of the Lincoln Realtors board at the annual banquet at the Cornhusker hotel Wednesday evening. D. W. Hayes will fill the office of vice-president and A. H. Robertson will take up duties as treasurer. Walter White, present secretary, will continue in that capacity.

The members of the executive board elected R. E. Harrington, retiring president, S. Hyatt and W. L Turner. The newly elected officers take up their duties at the first of the year.

Before the business session and concluding reports of the years' work, Frank Eager spoke on possibilities of civic improvement. Mr. Eager said that the opening of Fifteenth street from O to R will certainly be done some time in the future. This, he said, is ascertained by the report of the capitol commission to the last session of the legislautre.

The cut will be 120 feet wide, Mr Eager declared. This civic project can be done better and more quickly with the aid of local agencies participating, the speaker said. It is not fair that the city of Lincoln should pay all, Mr. Eager stated, but it is only fair that it pay a part. The university is expected to assist also.

He pointed out that with a boulevard as a setting, the beauty of the capitol when completed will be greatly enhanced and outstanding events in the nation's and state's history will be commemorated through appropriate monuments.

Mr. Eager also urged cooperation of the realtors in wiping out the poor residential section north of the university. This territory is being transformed into a beauty spot in the community through the extension of the university and the erection of sorority and fraternity houses.

Dr. Charles Fordyce spoke briefly on "Human Nature and Efficiency Among Realtors." He said that the people are living in a scientific age and proceeded to show how the real estate business was becoming a science. He gave an analysis that included the essential characteristics of a realtor.

At the business session a report by the secretary, Walter White, was given on the receipts and disbursements of the association. The report of the appraisal committee showed that during the past year the committee had appraised the property of the Lincoln Traction company, the Public Service corporation and muck of the ground just north of the capitol.

The publicity committee reported that during the coming session of the legislature, it would boost for a legislative appropriation to advertise Nebraska Laurence Farrell, president of the Nebraska State Realtors, spoke briefly saying that cooperation and industry in the past had made the Lincoln organization successful and hoped for a bright future.

Ralph E. Harrington, outgoing president, was presented with a leather billfold at the close of the meeting by Secretary White on behalf of the realtors.

Meat Packers of Britain and U. S. Continue a War

LONDON, Dec. 2—The Daily Mail says it may be some time before the "meat war" between great packing firms in the United States and Great Britain for control of the world's meat supply ends, as the combatants, although all tired of losing money, have been unable to agree on terms.

"All the companies are trying to hammer out a plan," one of the persons intimately concerned in the trouble is quoted as having said, "but as far as I can see, it will mean another form of conference."

Representatives of American and British meat packers are at present engaged in discussing South American shipping arrangements. The discussions relate to chilled beef shipments from the river plate refrigeration, ship rates and ship loadings.

GIRLS CLUB MEETS

The Girls Commercial club of the university met at the Grand hotel for its monthly meeting Wednesday evening. The all-university carnival mixer which will be held at the coliseum next Saturday evening was discussed and final plans made. The girls are sponsoring this event.

Plans for affiliation with the woman's division of the chamber of commerce are under consideration. Mildred Marlow presided with about 50 present.

HUNT IS CHAIRMAN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—C. W. Hunt of Iowa, will serve as chairman of the federal trade commission during the coming year. He was designated Wednesday under the commission's plan of rotating the chairmanship among members.

WORKMAN INJURED

Frank Buehler, 42, a workman on the wrecking of the old Burlington depot, was injured Wednesday afternoon but in what way, neither he nor fellow workmen can tell. Buehler was found on the job with a cut on his head and contusions about the shoulder He was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital in Wadlow's ambulance.

Attendants believe Buehler, who lives at 2035 S street, fell a short distance, or perhaps stumbled and fell to the floor. Dr. F. B. Hollenbeck attended him. His injuries were not regarded as serious.

AUTOMOBILE MEN HEAR KELLERMAN

National Representative Speaks On Sales Efficiency to Group Here.

Joseph N. Kellerman, representative of the National Motor Trades association, was the speaker at the dinner of the Lincoln Motor Trades dealers Wednesday evening at the Lincoln hotel. Mr. Kellerman stressed sales efficiency, declaring that a pleasing personality is a chief factor of success with the progressive salesman.

The speaker said that all over the country relations between automobile dealers in most of the cities was very favorable and that friendliness on their part meant progress for the automobile industry. The factories, also, Mr. Kellerman said, are realizing the importance of the retail field and the local dealer, and they are rapidly investigating plans for closer cooperation with the agents.

"The salesman," Mr. Kellerman declared, "must have ambition, must know the elements of the business, must possess a thorough knowledge of the product he is selling and must radiate a cheerful personality to all prospective customers and to the rest of the sales staff at the concern headquarters."

Salesmen are made and not born, is Mr. Kellerman's belief. Experience and training along with industry make up the qualities of a good salesman.

H. E. Sidles presided over the meeting and introduced Mr. Kellerman. An invitation was extended to the dealers to apply for membership in the national association. Its merits were discussed by the club members and by Mr. Kellerman.

FOUR BOYS GET BENCH PAROLES

Youths Involved In Burglary Put On Probation For Two Years.

Four boys, all under 21, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary before District Judge Shepherd, and were paroled from the bench for two years

The boys were Walter T. Mohr, A. E. Zimmer, Manley Patterson and Kenneth Burley. They were paroled, in the order named, to the following men who appeared in their behalf. L. C. Holland, G. E. Hager, R. C. VanKirk, and Mr. Warren, of the Warren Delivery Co.

The boys entered the shop of the Roberts Construction company last July, taking a chest of tools, it was alleged. The chest was later hidden in a cornfield and the boys set out for Iowa. They were caught at an Iowa town and returned.

For some time they have been out on bond, and according to their statements in court, have all been working since.

Judge Shepherd warned them that they must all work during the parole period, and that, any violation of the agreement will cause them to be sentenced. Three of the men to whom the boys were paroled are attorneys, and Judge Shepherd remarked that his experience had been that lawyers have greater success with paroled men than do laymen

Alleged Chicken Thieves Arrested By Gage Farmers

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Residents of Cortland, this county, descended on Sheriff John Sailing here Wednesday with a pair of alleged chicken thieves—Albert Otto and George Sherman—who were captured by a group of neighbors and who afterward confessed.

First securing their evidence, the Cortland vigilantes went to Pickrell, north of Beatrice, found Otto and Sherman in a house where the former lives alone, then brought them to the county jail.

Otto and Sherman sold the chickens to a Beatrice dealer for $9, it is said.

FORD HAS CLOSED SEVERAL PLANTS

Temporary Shutdown of Departments Affects Several Thousand Workers.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 2—(By the Associated Press.)—A temporary shutdown of many departments of the Ford Motor Co., plants here became effective Wednesday. Officials of the company made no statement as to the probable length of the layoff, which affects several thousand workers. The company customarily shuts down in December for inventory, it was pointed out.

Wall Street Comments.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The New York American says that Wall Street observers interpret the closing of the Highland Park and River Rouge plants of the Ford Motor Co., as a step on the part of Henry Ford to enter the middle-priced car field.

Reports have been current in the street for some time that Ford, on account of the decrease in sales of Ford cars during the past two years, intended to manufacture a medium priced car.

Leaders in the automobile trade according to The American, are willing to admit that a "show down" is impending between Ford and the General Motors corporation.

Eastern Star Annual Dinner

The past worthy matrons club and the past worthy patrons of Electa chapter of the Eastern Star held their annual dinner at the Grand hotel Wednesday evening. Later, those present went to the home of Mrs. W. C. Van Andel, 1045 South Thirteenth street, for a social evening and program.

Prof. George Chatburn acted as chairman, introduced by J. S. Baer, for the program committee. G. E. Hager and Dr. David C. Hilton gave the "pathfinders" report. A humorous report by the "faultfinders" was read by E. F. Snavely which was discussed by past patrons. Mrs. Louie M. Allen, past worthy matron, gave a "critics" report. L. C. Oberlies acted as songmaster.

At the close of the program roses were presented to Mrs. Blanche Tyler, president of the past matrons club, other past matrons, and all ladies present. About thirty-five attended the affair.

GOITRE QUICKLY REMOVED —MANY STARTLING CURES

A new treatment for goitre has been developed by the W.T.B. Laboratories, 9056 Y. M. C. A. Bldg., Battle Creek, Michigan, which many believe will prove to be the long-sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease. Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller, and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks. It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitre. The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home.

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes, Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre, issued by the Laboratories, fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed free to any interested sufferer.

HOWELL POSITION IS DISAPPROVED

Attitude On River Bill Jeopardizes Interests Of Constituents.

Burt County Farmers Ask That Support Be Given House Measure.

(Special to The Star.)

TEKAMAH, Neb., Dec. 2.—The regular monthly meeting of the Burt county farm bureau was held in Tekamah Tuesday. The farm bureau of Burt county, is composed of over 400 of the progressive farmers and farm women of the county.

At this meeting every precinct was represented by authorized delegates. The present status of the desired authorization for improvement of the upper Missouri river from Kansas City to Sioux City, was brought up and thoroughly discussed. C. B. Steward, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau federation, was invited to discuss the river question and gave a complete history of the winning fight made by the upper river interests to secure recognition of the project in the river and harbor bill now pending before congress.

Secretary Steward commented on the loyalty of the Nebraska members of the house to the interests of their state in their support of the Missouri river amendment and the river and harbor bill as it passed the house. Congressman Sears of the second district came in for particular mention as having borne the brunt of the fight in the lower house as chairman of the Missouri river group of congressmen.

The present unfavorable situation of the upper Missouri amendment as recommended by the senate committee of commerce was explained, as well as the attitude of Nebraska senators, particularly Senator R. B. Howell. The delegates felt that it should be Senator Howell's duty to use every means at his command to secure the adoption of the house provision for authorization of the improvement of the upper Missouri river and then work and vote for the passage of the river and harbor bill by the senate and not jeopardize the interests of his constituents by a needless attack on other projects included in the bill.

The ill-advised opposition of Senator Howell to improvement projects of vital importance to other regions of the country is creating a hostile attitude toward the Missouri river improvement and seriously threatens any chance of recognition, it was stated. After the conclusion of Secretary Steward's address, the subject was further discussed by President Dudley Beck, former President H. L. Webster, Otto Uehling and other members of the convention.

Adopt Resolutions.

The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the farmers of Nebraska are financially distressed because of their unfair economic relations to commerce and industry, due to increasing costs of operation and increased burdens imposed upon them in the transportation and distribution of their products, and,

Whereas, agriculture being the source of all Nebraska wealth and any impairment of the income of agriculture is reflected in all other lines of business in the state and,

Whereas, increasing labor costs and material costs have resulted in a very much higher level of freight rates since the close of the war, as compared with pre-war rates and,

Whereas, it is no longer a controversial question that the opening of the Panama canal has caused a shift in trade routes from the interior to the ocean and has made necessary the early improvement and completion of our two great inland waterways, viz., the the Great Lakes and water route to the Atlantic ocean, and the Mississippi system with the connection of the two through the Illinois river at Chicago, and,

Whereas, the house of representatives of the sixty-ninth congress has passed a river and harbor bill in which is included an authorization for the improvement of the Missouri river from Kansas City to Sioux City, Iowa, and

Whereas, after the passage of said river and harbor bill by the house, the committee on commerce of the United States senate recommended a substitute amendment, which limits the authorization to $12,000,000, with a proviso that even this expenditure shall be at the discretion of the chief of engineers limited to such work as he may consider as economical of construction, and further that such work or all of the amount, shall be on a co-operative basis as the chief of engineers or the secretary of war may direct;

Now therefore, be it resolved by the Burt county farm bureau that we urge our Nebraska senators, Hon. George W. Norris, and Hon. R. B. Howell, to use every honorable means to secure the substitution of the house of representatives provision for full authorization of the improvement of the upper Missouri river, in lieu of the proposal of the senate committee on commerce, and that when the river and harbor bill is restored to the form in which it passed the house of representatives they shall support and work for the passage of the river and harbor bill by the senate of the United States and by so doing provide a measure of relief from the excessive transportation charges now levied on the products of agriculture and industry originating in the states of the Missouri valley.

Oppose Direct Tax For Highway Work

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 2.—Considerable opposition is said to exist over the western part of Nebraska toward one of the resolutions passed by the Nebraska Good Roads association at their convention at Omaha recently to be submitted to the legislature this session. This is resolution number three, which recommends a direct property tax of one mill for the biennial period for the construction of the state highway system where federal aid is not available. Citizens of west Nebraska contend that this resolution provides for a tax that is unnecessary. They state that there is much federal aid yet to be obtained in the state, especially in western Nebraska. They are anxious that a great deal of much needed attention be given the state highways of western Nebraska.

Denounce United States Chamber Commerce As Tool

(Special to The Star.)

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Dec. 2.—With nearly 100 delegates present from nine of the 16 towns in the association, the associated chambers of commerce of the North Platte valley, which met at Morrill on Monday, passed resolutions denouncing the United States chamber of commerce as a tool of the "big interests" and not really in sympathy with the farmer, despite its apparent interest in agriculture. In the resolutions, it also demanded that the United States chamber's survey of the agricultural situation be disregarded until such time as that body actually showed it was really in sympathy with the rural communities.

WYMORE, Neb., Dec. 2.—Work has been suspended until spring on the completing of 21 blocks of cross street paving in Wymore. It was started a month ago, but bad weather conditions made it impractical to continue. All cement curbs have now been placed, and part of the grading was started for the base. Approaches have been closed up and the sections to be paved will be regraded in the spring.

Claim Testator Was Incompetent To Make a Will

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Witnesses continue to be heard in district court in support of the contention of the children of the late Henry Watson, Diller eccentric, that he was not competent to make the will whereby they were given only a life estate in his $25,000 property. O. J. Mayborn, Diller banker; Abraham Watson, a son and heir; Earl Stull, William Barton, Editor F. J. Pearce of the Diller Record, and others told that the 88-year-old man could neither read nor write and was completely deaf. His children have no children of their own and at their deaths the property will revert to relatives in England if efforts to break the will are not successful.

Alliance Seeking Veteran Hospital

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 2.—State Commander Earl L. Meyer of Alliance is in Indianapolis, Ind., attending a conference of state commanders of the American Legion which began Monday morning for a three-day session. One of the matters of interest to the state to be taken up is the location of the large disabled veterans hospital promised Nebraska. The institution recommended for this state will contain 250 beds. Alliance is making a strong bid for this hospital and Commander Meyer is exerting considerable effort to get the institution to this city.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

(Special to The Star.)

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Dec. 2—Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Taylor of Broken Bow celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home here on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were married in Minnesota in 1876 and came to Custer county in 1879 and have made their home here since that time. Nine children are living, six of whom were present for the wedding anniversary.

OLD RESIDENT CALLED

(Special to The Star.)

STROMSBURG, Neb., Dec. 2.—Mrs. Margaret Barber, 73, who with her husband homesteaded near here over fifty years ago, died at her home in this city Tuesday. She had been in ill health for some time and died of heart failure. She was the widow of M. F. Barber, an old soldier who died about four years ago. She is survived by four sons and three daughters. The funeral was held Thursday from the home and from the Methodist church of which she was a lifelong member.

Richer Flavor, Madam

In Quick-Cooking Oats

That Marvelous Quaker Flavor

Be sure you get QUICK QUAKER

Real 3-minute cooking

WOMEN wanted quick-cooking oats. But they wanted, above all, quick-cooking oats with rich flavor. That was the hard part.

Now millions enjoy real Quaker flavor—the supreme oat flavor of the world—plus real 3-minute cooking.

Quick Quaker is a food creation. It's smooth as cream and as luscious. It has a flavor no other oats in the world can boast. A flavor that spoils you for ordinary oats.

It took years of milling experience to perfect that flavor. Milling, too, that retains much of the "bulk" of oats, and which makes laxatives seldom needed. Milling that combines protein, carbohydrates and the important Vitamine B into an excellently balanced food . . . food that "stands by" you.

Cheaper Than Substitutes

Get genuine Quick Quaker. Comes in full 20-ounce (a full pound and 4 ounces) packages. That means over 40% more oats per package than most substitutes. Hence real Quaker costs LESS. Thus, if you accept a substitute you alone are the loser. Look always for the printed weight on all oats that you buy.

Distributed 14 Carloads of Fish During Summer

A report on conditions at the Valentine fish hatchery and the number of fish distributed from there during the past season has been sent in to State Agriculture Secretary McLaughlin by the superintendent M. E. O'Brien, who says:

"Since the fish car has stopped running, and the ponds are frozen over, our distribution of fish for this year is practically closed. Have a few more applications that I am filling by messenger. With this done our years distribution will be finished.

"Including the fish sent out last spring, we have distributed this year from Valentine 14 carloads of fish. We have in the holding ponds at present about 60,000 young fish. We also have yet to drain 3 ponds which should produce 60,000 fish. If these fish had all been sent out this fall, we would have had 20 carloads of fish, or about double the output of any former year.

"We have two ponds built the past summer that were not in use this year. The six new ponds that we used turned out a fine lot of young fish, a little undersized, owing to a shortage of insect life.

"When the whole pond system is fully in operation, with an increased supply of insect life, the hatchery should be made to produce enough fish to equal 2 carloads a month, and possibly more.

"It is with a great deal of satisfaction that I am able to report these conditions. It has taken several years hard work to bring the hatchery up to this state of efficiency. Results will show that it has been worth while.

"In bulk production of pond fish the Valentine hatchery is unequaled by any other pond hatchery in the country. The report of the federal bureau of fisheries for the year 1925 show an average output of fish from their 8 pond hatcheries of 60,000 fish federal pond hatcheries will show very favorably, and this will apply to state hatcheries as well, although some of these have a larger output than the federal hatcheries."

Deaths

Mrs. Florence Martha Worley, 44, wife of Robert Worley, died at 5:35 Thursday morning at the home, 1247 North Twenty-fifth street. She is survived by her husband, mother, Mrs. Martha Cowing of Clay Center, Kas.; three brothers, James and Samuel Cowing of Clay Center, and Levi of Los Angeles, Calif.; and five sisters, Mrs. Nettie Lake, Clay Center; Mrs. Fred Kemper Junction City, Kas; Mrs. Ben McPherson, Stratton, Neb.; Mrs. Emma Casteel, Independence, Mo.; and Mrs. Louis Alastram of Lincoln. The body will be held at Krobien, Goldstein and Umberger's until Saturday evening at 7 o'clock when it will be taken to Clay Center for funeral services and burial.

The body of Mrs. Amelia Pitts is being held at Castle, Roper and Matthews awaiting arrival of a daughter from California. Services will probably be held Friday.

Martin Van Overton, 59, died Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home at Fourth and Judson streets. He had lived in Lincoln for forty years. He leaves his wife three daughters; Ruth of Lincoln, Mrs. Ida Coyne, Murdock, S. D., and Mrs. C. T. Glick of Lincoln; and four sons, Curtis of San Diego, Calif., Clyde of Long Island, Kas., and Robert and George of Lincoln. The body is being held at Alba Brown's pending funeral arrangements.

Funeral services for Miss Pauline Story were held Thursday afternoon at Henry Brown's funeral parlors. Interment in Wyuka.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Doyle were held Thursday morning at the Sacred Heart church, Rev. R. Quinn in charge. Interment in Wyuka.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Stagg was held at Castle, Roper and Matthew's Thursday afternoon, Rev. L. W. McMillin in charge. Burial in Wyuka.

Isaac Campbell, 74, of Seward, died at a local hospital Thursday morning. The body is being held at Castle, Roper and Matthews pending funeral arrangements.

About People

Victor Samuelson, formerly in the grocery business in Lincoln, now operating a store at Hildreth, was in the city Thursday. He reports business conditions fairly good in that part of Nebraska.

Chemist R. G. Batty of the state food, drug and oil bureau addressed the high school students' chemistry club Wednesday afternoon, telling about the official testing done in that bureau, and also in the seed laboratory operated in conjunction with it.

CLAIM BRUNSON SOON TO RESIGN

Omaha Newspaper Report Says Change Coming In Prohib Forces.

OMAHA, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Glenn Brunson, chief federal prohibition enforcement officer for Iowa, Nebraska and South Washington support with the death of Senator Albert B. Cummings of Dakota, lost practically all of his lowa, and as a result he may leave the service and reorganization of the district may follow. This is the statement of the Omaha Bee, today, credited to "attaches at the federal building."

The newspaper says that Congressman Sears of Nebraska, had a lengthy conference with federal officers here yesterday and that although he refused to make a statement afterwards "politicians" at the federal offices say he and Senators Norbeck of South Dakota and Brookhart of Iowa will agree on Emerson Hunt of South Dakota as Brunson's successor.

Local officials have insisted for sometime that the greater share of the regional prohibition force should work out of Omaha and it is expected, the newspaper says, that a reorganization will be affected. Brunson's present office is in Sioux City.

"Brunson, it is said, has been offered a more lucrative position in Des Moines," the story concludes, "and if transferred from this district will resign from the prohibition service."

A Cold Wave Strikes East

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The coldest weather of the season today gripped almost all of the eastern section of the country and in one place, Rochester, N. Y., one death was caused.

Temperatures ranged from considerably above the freezing point to 15 degrees below zero at Tupper Lake, N. Y., and 32 degrees below zero at Daucet, western uebec.

The cold was accompanied by a biting wind and snow in some sections.

A 52 degree fall in twenty-four hours was reported at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Winter laid siege to the eastern half of the country today after a sudden sortie out of the northwest that gave December a shivering debut in the plains states and the middle west.

Spreading over the Alleghanies and southward to send the mercury scurrying in the upper edges of the gulf states, the cold wave held sway from sections of the middlewest to the Atlantic seaboard.

Temperature rose slightly from near zero levels in the central west today, but the weather bureau warned of another disturbance moving inland from the northwest, and another drop for thermometers.

The temperature advance of winter cost two lives in the midwest, imperilled many others and worked havoc in Great Lakes shipping. With Minnesota blanketed with snow and chilled by gusty winds, Clyde Gaskill, 45, was found frozen to death near Austin, while at Chicago the body of Andres Korjack was found huddled along the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

Six Hundred Year Old Formula Tested At Eastern School

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—By a secret formula of Roger Bacon, Franciscan monk and Thirteenth centuryscientist, salts of copper have been produced at the University of Pennsylvania. The formula's secret was revealed with translation of the cipher in which Bacon wrote all his works.

The deciphering was done by the late Dr. William Romaine Newbold, who was professor of intellectual and moral philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania and whose work on the Roger Bacon manuscripts had been seriously questioned by scholars in this country and abroad. It was intimated by the skeptics that his findings were the products of a subconscious mind rather than the results of scholarly research.

What was said to be conclusive proof of the accuracy of his Bacon translations was submitted last night at a memorial service. Dr. Roland G. Kent, professor of comparative philology at Pennsylvania, said that the secret formula had been proved effective by chemists at the university.

Having deciphered the formula, Dr. Newbold took it to Dr. Edgar Fahs Smith, chemist and former provost of the University of Penn sylvania. Dr. Fahs Smith turned it over to Dr. Iram S. Lukens, professor of chemistry, and the latter's experiment proved it to be accurate.

Bacon's formula has been unused for 600 years and is too complicated to be of commercial value today, experts said.

Sickness Takes Many Policemen Away From Work

Sickness took a heavy toll among Lincoln's night police Wednesday, and left the force equipped with but three patrolmen and six other men on duty. One of the patrolmen was assigned to University Place, which left only two for the downtown district of Lincoln.

Louis Cooner, patrolman, suffered an attack of pleurisy at 10:30 while he was walking his beat. He collapsed on the street and was brought to the police station by C. G. McGraw, 609 Marshall avenue. Dr. W. H. Slattery attended the policeman at his home, 1526 N street, and said he would not be able to return to work for some time.

Officer Holloway was absent because of injuries he suffered almost two months ago when he fell during a chase. Officer Wait and Lieutenant Rymer also were unable to report Wednesday night because of illness. Two others were off duty as Wednesday is their regular weekly holiday.

That left the desk sergeant, the patrol driver, and four shotgun squad men. Officer Eaton was taken from his motorcycle to work on the shotgun squad, which left no traffic officer.

Fourteen men reported for duty on the day shift Thursday.

Italy and Albania Draw Up Friendship And Security Pact

ROME, Dec. 2.—(AP)— Premier Mussolini's policy of linking Italy with all the Balkan nations by treaties of friendship and co-operation has borne new fruit in the signing at Tirana of an Italian-Albanian "pact of friendship and security." The treaty was signed on November 27 and official announcement was made last night.

The pact, which would be registered immediately with the League of Nations, differs from those already existing with Jugo-Slavia, Greece and Rumania, in that it is based on an unilateral guarantee by Italy of Albania's territorial integrity and on a mutual agreement to refrain from making treaties with other nations affecting the reciprocal interests of Italy and Albania.

The specific implication of Italy's guardianship of her trans-Adriatic neighbor is contained in article I, which reads: Italy and Albania recognize that any disturbance of Albania's political, judicial and territorial status quo is contrary to their reciprocal political interests.

The agreement also provides for submission of questions which cannot be solved by normal diplomatic exchanges to a special procedure for conciliation and arbitration.

Kilmartin Suffers Broken Collarbone In Fall On Steps

State Boxing Commissioner John Kilmartin is laid up at his home in Omaha with a broken collarbone, as the result of a fall he had last Monday on slippery cement steps leading from his house to the garage when he went to take out his car. He will not be able to give his attention to the affairs of his office for a week or more. Political gossip has been in circulation to the effect that another man is to be appointed in Kilmartin's place the first of the year. This appointment might be hastened by the inability of the present commissioner to handle the business of his bureau.

Two Bound Over On Guilty Pleas Stealing Poultry

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 2.—Pleading guilty to the charge of stealing chickens from Mrs. James Barnard of Cortland, George Sherman and Albert Otto were bound over to the present term of the District court by Judge Messmore. In default of bond they were remanded to jail.

Lincoln Telephone Directories Now Being Delivered!
A CREW of 125 boys are now delivering 30,000 copies of the winter issue of the Lincoln Telephone directory. Three days will be required to complete the job.
There are three things we would like to point out regarding the new directory:
1. More than 10,000 changes have occurred since the previous directory was issued. In the interest of good service we urge you to use the new directory and to destroy the old one if it was not collected.
2. We urge you to always look up the number wanted before calling "Information." This will save time.
3. The telephone directory contains display advertising and a classified business section which is valuable buying information to meet your needs. More and more it is being used by Lincoln people to find out whereto buy services, merchandise and products of all kinds.

TAX REDUCTION APPEARS ISSUE SHORT SESSION

Democrats For Immediate Revision; Republicans Ask Testing.

Ways and Means Committee Has Not Considered Coolidge Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—With the reconvening of the Sixty-ninth congress only four days away, indications are rapidly multiplying that the principal battle of the short session will rage about the issue of tax reduction.

Already the battle lines have been clearly defined, with the democrats determined to bring about immediate revision of the tax law and the republican leaders equally determined that nothing of the sort shall be done until the present statute has been given at least another year of practical testing.

This far the democrats are the only group that has formally drafted a tax reduction proposal aimed at the impending treasury surplus. It was formulated by Representative Garner of Texas, and other democratic members of the ways and means committee, after conferences with Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking minority member of the senate finance committee, and is designed to reduce the federal revenue by $350,000,000 a year.

Deem Revision Inadvisable.

The ways and means committee as a whole hasn't gotten around to the administration's proposal that the treasury surplus be returned to the taxpayers in the form of credits on income tax returns, which would be paid in the first two quarters next year, having devoted its time to the alien property bill, now nearing completion.

Chairman Green, however, and other republican leaders, have taken the position that revision of the tax law is inadvisable at this time, agreeing with the administration's position that its actual revenue reducing capacity cannot be determined until it has been given a further test. This year's surplus, now estimated at $300,000,000, they hold is not indicative of the operation of the law since it includes considerable revenue which will not be received next year. The democrats, on the other hand, argue that the surplus will amount to $500,000,000 and that immediate tax revision is justified.

Longworth Hopeful.

Tax legislation, meanwhile, has found no place in the tentative program of major legislation which republican leaders hope to see enacted, but the alien property bill is included in their list and Speaker Longworth has predicted that it will be disposed of quickly. The measure, however, already has roused the opposition of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who contends that "in principle" it "would endorse confiscation" of private property in violation of one of the fundamentals on which the government was founded.

Eats Twenty-five Cinnamon Rolls In Nineteen Minutes

AUBURN, Neb., Dec. 2.—(AP)—After eating a hearty breakfast and working a while on a farm near town, Peter Stoddard, 17, came to a local restaurant yesterday morning and on a $2.50 wager ate twice his usual number of cinnamon rolls —24—and offered to bet another two and a half that he could clean up half a pie for dessert.

"Going to eat?" asked a companion when Stoddard showed up for his usual morning "piece."

"Just a bite," said Peter.

There followed some joshing about Stoddard's 260 pounds of flesh, and the bet was made that he could not eat twice the usual dozen cinnamon rolls he consumed nearly every morning. He not only won the bet, but swallowed the last one after it had been soaked in gasoline—then took his twenty-fifth roll to prove that he was no quitter and offered to eat half a pie. The rolls, home made, were considerably larger than the usual size. They were consumed in nineteen minutes, while under the terms of the wager he had an hour to perform the feat.

NO MORE ASTHMA Says MICHIGAN MAN

Hundreds Have Followed His Plan With Amazing Success. Even Those Who Suffered a Lifetime.

Costs NOTHING to Try

Six years ago O. W. Dean, a prominent business man of Benton Harbor, Mich., discovered a new way to treat Asthma and to his utter astonishment he never had another attack afterwards. Hundreds of his friends and neighbors spread the news and the success of this treatment has created wonderful interest. So many have written for his plan that Mr. Dean has had it prepared all ready for mailing and will gladly send it free to all who will send him their name and address. It works equally well for Hay Fever, Bronchitis and Catarrhal Conditions of the Mucous Membrane.

As it is entirely free and absolutely harmless, containing no narcotics or other such strong drugs every asthmatic should hasten to send for it to O. W. Dean, 551 Dean Bldg., Benton Harbor, Mich.

For your convenience you can use the coupon below.

Universities Big Prize Winners In Livestock Show

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Rupert B, the grand champion steer of the International Livestock exposition, was sold at auction today for the record breaking price of $3.60 a pound. The steer weighed 965 pounds and was bought by Wilson & Company for the Shelburne hotel, Atlantic City, N. J. Rupert B is a Hereford owned by the Oklahoma A. & M. college, Stillwater, Okla.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Standing out among the prize winners at the International Livestock show are the state universities of the country, also prominent because of their large complete exhibits of newest ideas in agriculture.

Never before, officials say, have the universities appeared so frequently in the list of awards. Among the leaders this year, are Oklahoma A. & M., Michigan State, Pennsylvania State, Purdue, Iowa State, Kansas, Minnesota and Kentucky.

Sale of the grand champion steer, Rupert B, owned by the Oklahoma college, together with the class champion steers, held the interest of those attending the exposition today. Rupert B's predecessor, Mah Jong, sold for three dollars a pound last year, and an equally high price was predicted for the 1926 champion.

George Gordon Davis, of Buenos Aires, South America, famous judge of livestock, who has the honor of picking the grand champion, terms this exposition the greatest of its kind he has ever seen. The Hereford cattle displayed are the best in existence, he believes, while the Shorthorns and Aberdeen Angus breed are as good as any in the world.

The outstanding feature of the show, believes Mr. Davis, are the carloads of fat steers, the like of which probably could not be gathered anywhere else.

Court Dismisses Suit For Damages In Baney Death

The $50,000 damage suit brought in Federal court by Edith L. Baney against the Burlington and the state of Nebraska as a result of the death of her husband who was killed a year ago while employed in the work of unloading dirt from the capitol excavation at the state fair grounds, has been dismissed by order of Federal Judge T. C. Munger.

The case was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction on the part of the Federal court. The case had been set for second trial during the coming session of the court. It was originally filed in the state courts and will probably be returned there by the attorneys for Mrs. Baney.

A ruling that the Federal court has no jurisdiction in cases in which the state is involved was the basis for Judge Munger's order.

Discounts Report Draft Evader Son Home by Christmas

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover C. Bergdoll, notorious draft evader, declared today that she did not believe her son was planning to leave Germany.

"But," she added, "if people would mind their own business and keep their noses out of Grover's affairs I think he would come home. The trouble is people, with their nosiness, spoil it all and prevent Grover from coming. I have not heard that he is coming and won't believe it until I see him here. As far as his leaving the town where he has been staying, why not? Can't a man move around a little?"

Tuesday night, in denying reports that Bergdoll was planning to come home by Christmas and "take his medicine," Mrs. Bergdoll said she did not believe he ever would return to the United States.

Nebraska Takes First Contest In Meat Judging

"Nebraska is particularly well pleased to win the meats judging contests at the Chicago International this year, because this is the first year that such a contest has ever been held," Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel of the agricultural college who coached the boys, said this morning in commenting upon the winning announced yesterday.

Nebraska's team was made up of Don Ray of Wayne who won the contest, Peter Pratt of Beaver Crossing, and Frank Reece of Valentine. Russell Kendall of Lincoln was alternate. These boys have all taken the meats course at the college of agricultural and have been training for the contest this fall.

Orders Youth Not To Drive Car For Six Month Period

W. P. Tidrow, 17, was ordered not to drive a car for six months when he pleaded guilty in municipal court Thursday to a charge of driving on the wrong side of a street car. Judge Chappell added that the youth should not ride in a car for the first 30 days.

The heavy penalty was administered, Judge Chappell said, because a like violation of the ordinance on Monday resulted in the injury of Evelyn Freeman, a school teacher. Robert Corbet, 18, was the driver of a car which struck Miss Freeman as it was driven around the wrong side of a street car.

Corbet pleaded guilty to the charge in court Tuesday, and was ordere dto go without his car for 30 days.

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The engagement of Clara Bow, screen star, and Victor Fleming, director, has been broken, at least temporarily, the "film flapper" announced Wednesday. A disagreement was given as the reason for calling off the marriage which has been planned for February. Miss Bow volunteered, however, that she and Fleming still are friends and admitted that "disagreements can be fixed up."

CANTONESE ARMY ROUTING ENEMIES

As Southern Forces Gain Situation Of Foreigners Is Improving.

(By the Associated Press.)

Foreign colonies in Foochow and Hankow still are harassed by threats of trouble as the northern forces are being broken up by the Cantonese in two provinces, Fukien and Hupeh.

As the southern army tightens its grip, however, the situation shows promise of easing. The northern army has been routed at Foochow and the civil government, aided by naval authorities, both friendly to the invading southerners, have promised protection to foreigners.

In Fukien province, northern troops are going over to the Cantonese side as the political complexion of the state changes. Gen. Li Sen-Chun turned upon his northern ally, General Changl, near Foochow, routed him and is joining the Cantonese.

Japanese gunboats have arrived at Foochow, the first to respond to appeals of foreigners, the city is under martial law and business is suspended.

Strike Threatened.

At Hankow a general strike is threatened in the foreign concessions. The city is under the uncertain rule of the labor unions, friendly to the southerners, but order has not been established. It is believed the situation there will be relieved as soon as the southerners fulfill their promise to establish their capital at Wuchang, near Hankow, and take a tighter hold on Hupeh province. Reports from Hankow yesterday said two American gunboats and other foreign craft are anchored there and others are on the way. The general strike is planned for December 4.

The desertion of the northern forces at Foochow is merely another repetition of the treachery that has been the lot of the northern allies in recent months. On virtually every front since mid-summer the tide of battle has been turned against the northerners and forces friendly to them by the defection of fighting units.

To Hold Meeting Of County Farm Bureau Friday

Two hundred farmers are expected to meet here Friday for the eighth annual session of the county farm bureau.

At 11 o'clock, the meeting opens with a short discussion of business at the office of Agent J. F. Purbaugh in the court house. This will be adjourned at noon for dinner at the Grand hotel.

Sixteen divisions of the home economics department are each to present a playlet during the afternoon. A home demonstration team, the state champions from University Place, will put on their work.

Mr. Purbaugh is to give his report and Secretary C. E. Olmsted will give a statement of finances. N. W. Gaines, community specialist at the University of Nebraska, Secretary C. B. Steward of the state farm bureau federation, and President C. H. Gustafson of the Lincoln Co-op Poultry association will each give short addresses.

Officers are not elected at this meeting but are chosen by the delegates which each precinct names.

Old Resident Of Stromsburg Dies

(Special to The Star.)

STROMSBURG, Neb., Dec. 2.—E. P. Pike of this city died Tuesday at his home here after an illness of three months. Mr. Pike was 71 years old, and had lived in this county for forty years. He received the republican nomination for representative at the primary this fall, but was defeated by Dr. J. C. Malster. Mr. Pike was a prominent auctioneer for many years, and this last year was precinct assessor. He was a prominent Mason, member of the M. E. church. His funeral will occur from the home and the M. E. church Friday. Rev. Pruit will have charge, with the assistance of the Masons of this county.

TRAFFIC CASES.

For violating parking ordinance: Clarence Rasmussen, W. Bruce, H. O. Williams, A. L. Prewitt, A. H. Robertson, Mrs. F. W. Putney, George H. Westcott, and Charles Northam, each $1 and costs; G. L. Shreve, J. T. Wilcox, dismissed.

For passing street car on wrong side: W. P. Tidrow, not to drive for six months and not to ride for 30 days.

For speeding: Ray Koll, not to drive for 60 days; P. Sheldon $10; John Gere, $12; R. C. Kinzer, $13.

For driving through funeral procession: George Rolls, $5.

For violating arterial stop button: C. R. Moore, $1.

Pastor Complains Against Driver; Latter Fined $5

Rev. Fred B. Nichols of the Bethany Christian church was the complaining witness against George Rolls in municipal court. Rolls pleaded guilty of driving through a funeral procession, and Rev. Nicholes told Judge Chappell what had happened. The minister was riding in a car in the procession, driven by A. W. Osterhout, he said, when Rolls drove his car in front of it and halted the procession temporarily.

Judge Chappell fined Rolls $5 and costs. The judge recently commended a civilian for making a complaint against another motorist. "If everybody would do that," he said, "We wouldn't need any more officers."

SIAMESE PLEASED.

BANGKOK, Siam, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Siamese people are greatly pleased at the birth of what is declared to be a white elephant in the north of Siam. The populace regard it as a particularly good omen in the year of his present majesty's accession. The baby elephant is accepted by local experts as a true white, although for the moment it is of a pinkish color, and the celam to it being a "true white" has still to be pronounced officially.

Early Polk County Resident Passes Away In Colorado

(Special to The Star.)

STROMSBURG, Neb., Dec. 2.—Mrs. J. A. Olson died at the hospital at Boulder, Colo. She was 60 years old and lived in this county and city for over 40 years. She was taken with tubercular trouble four months ago and was taken to the mountains for treatmen.

She leaves her husband, J. A. Olson of this city, one daughter, Mrs. Fred Archibald of Lincoln; two sons, Morris Olson of Omaha, and Russell Olson of this city.

The funeral will be held from her home in Stromsburg next Sunday.

Given One Year Sentences For Forging Checks

Clyde Witte, and Albert Malcoln, charged with forgery, pleaded guilty Thursday morning before District Judge Wheeler and were each sentenced to one year in the state reformatory.

Witte was charged in the information with passing two checks for $4.05 each, marked "for eggs." Malcoln was alleged to have forged two checks for $10 each, signing the name "Roy Lyle."

West Point Cadet 'Hero.'

NEW YORK, Dec. —(By the Associated Pres.)—A story, with Princess Ileana of Rumania, as the heroine and Cadet Lieut. William J. Glasgow of West Point, as the hero, is printed by The World today.

Glasgow, "the Adonis of the academy" is the son of Col. William J. Glasgow, commander of the Third cavalry stationed at Fort Meyer, Va., just outside of Washington.

Two honor men of their class, Glasgow, manager of the academy soccer team, and Cadet Capt. Henry G. Douglas of Bellear, Md., regimental supply officer, were selected as escorts for the princess at a dance at the Academy.

After a few dances, Douglas gracefully withdrew, leaving the field to Glasgow. There was a brief stroll for a breath of fresh air and a view of the Hudson river in the moonlight.

Two weeks later Queen Marie reviewed the cadets in a pouring rain and Princess Ileana accompanied her. Then the royal party traveled 10,000 miles across the continent and back, but on her return to New York, Ileana asked that Glasgow be permitted to come to New York to have lunch with her.

Academy rules are not to be broken even for a princess, but The World declares when the cadet would not come to the princess, the princess went to the academy.

Glasgow was given permission to join her at lunch at the Thayer hotel in West Point. Others, including Douglas, were present by invitation in order to satisfy conventions, which do not allow a beautiful princess to lunch alone with a handsome cadet.

MARIE ON WAY TO BUCHAREST

Visits Carol In Paris But Refuses to Discuss What Took Place.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Bound for Bucharest, Queen Marie of Rumania, with Prince Nicholas, Princess Ileana and her entourage and car full of trunks, left Paris shortly before 9 o'clock Wednesday evening. The queen had a final animated talk with the correspondents who crowded the platform below the car window, out of which she leaned.

There were anxious inquiries by the correspondents as to what had taken place between the queen and her son, the former Crown Prince Carol, when they met Wednesday morning, but Marie tossed her head and replied, "I really cannot discuss that."

The former heir to the throne did not see his mother when she arrived Tuesday night from Cherbourg, nor did he put in an appearance at her hotel yesterday. So the queen, about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, entered a taxicab and drove to Neuilly, a suburb, where Carol resides. The meeting between mother and son took place in a private room at a restaurant at the edge of the Bois de Boulogne.

For the greater part of an hour they were together, but nothing is known of what passed between them.

In conversation with Madame Helene Vacaresco, the Rumanian poetess, the queen, speaking of her problems at home, remarked: "It will be very difficult, but we have been through many difficult times before, and I hope we will go through to the end."

GOLDEN WEDDING.

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Dec. 2.—The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Irvine, pioneer residents of Howard county, was observed at their home in the circle of over seventy-five relatives and friends. Among the guests were two who attended the wedding fifty years ago, Mrs. Mary Roe and Judge McCracken. In 1871 Mr. Irvine located in Howard county, on a homestead. Many out of town guests attended the celebration.

Overwork and Worry Tend to Overtax the System.

MODERN habits—overwork, worry, insufficient rest and exercise—all tend to overtax and slow up the bodily machinery. Good health requires good elimination. The kidneys filter the blood. Sluggish function, however, permits some retention of waste poisons. Such a "toxic condition" is inclined to make one languid and tired; there is sometimes toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic in these conditions. Doan's act on the kidneys only. They are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

NEBRASKA'S OPPORTUNITY.

Nebraska's two senators—George W. Norris and R. B. Howell—are being importuned to bend every effort in order to secure favorable consideration of the Missouri navigation provision in the rivers and harbors' bill.

There is a grave chance of misunderstanding of the exact status of the measure in the upper branch of congress. What Nebraska really desires is that the bill be restored to the form it passed the house. In the senate an amendment was tacked to the rivers and harbors bill which made Missouri river improvement contingent upon financial assistance from the communities benefitted. In other words, a federal appropriation is conditioned upon contributions from territory expecting to be served by water transportation.

No similar condition has been imposed by the federal government in its program of river and harbor development. The vast expenditures in the Ohio Valley, and along the Mississippi, and the huge sums spent along the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboards have come entirely from the federal purse. If the senate amendment to the house rivers and harbors bill is allowed to stand, it will be another example of unfair and intolerable discrimination against the states of the Central West, owing to eastern domination in the senate.

The fight which Senators Norris and Howell must wage, then, is not for final approval of the bill as amended in the senate, but to secure a restoration of the House provision.

Burt county's Farm Bureau Wednesday adopted resolutions calling upon Senator Howell to mend his ways in respect to improvements deemed vital in other sections of the country. His hostility, it was inferred, had alienated support for the measure in which Nebraska and other Central Western states are so vitally interested. Senator Howell has never been a very good "teamer." From the first day he took his place in the senate, he has, in only a slightly less degree than Senator Norris, pursued an independent course, generally in opposition to the powers that be at Washington.

* * *

Senators Norris and Howell have it within their power to do so very effective "trading" in connection with this rivers and harbors' bill. The margin of republican control in the senate is so scanty that any defection will be most menacing to President Coolidge's plans. If the president is to carry out his program in connection with taxation and other matters of vital importance to the administration, he will need every vote he can muster. He will need Mr. Howell even more than Senator Frazier of North Dakota, who after having been cast out from the party, is now being warmly welcomed back.

This matter of "trading" strength in congress is not a pretty picture. It is repugnant to citizens who believe issues should be settled upon their merits, irrespective of disposition of pending bills. But it is practical politics. It is the stock in trade of eastern interests, who have been able to retain control of the national congress year after year because they practiced practical politics while western senators were casting their ballots with the sole idea of passing honest judgment upon the pending measure.

Senators Norris and Howell, if they are in a mood to play the game, and with the assistance of other senators from this section who could be equally interested in Missouri river navigation, can force the senate to restore the bill to the original provisions adopted in the House. They can render no better service to their constituency than whipping the senate into line on a matter which is of the most vital concern to this region. Without the votes of these western republican senators, Mr. Coolidge is helpless. He is the whip by which Nebraska's senators can force eastern senators to retrace their steps.

METHODS OF IRRIGATING.

Apparently there are two sides to the tri-county irrigation and water power project for which legislative aid is being sought at the present time. Four hundred farmers have expressed themselves at a meeting held in Juniata, as being opposed to it because the cost would exceed the benefits.

The farmers, no doubt, have in mind the experience of irrigated land owners in the North Platte valley, where costs of construction and maintenance have piled up to double and treble what the government engineers estimated in advance. Development plans for the tri-county undertaking indicate that the cost would be somewhat greater there, on account of the necessity of building immense reservoirs to store water for use during the dry season.

The state at large, of course, would be glad to see any enterprise contributing to the material welfare of west central Nebraska carried through. Anything which helps that section will help the whole Cornhusker commonwealth. But if the people of the region directly interested are not convinced of the feasibility of this plan, there will be no disposition to force it on them.

With pump irrigation coming into general use in the Platte valley and elsewhere, it is an open question whether each farmer cannot procure his own water supply at much cheaper cost than to have it furnished from a big irrigation system. A gasoline engine, a well and a pump on each quarter section will do the business. With this equipment, every agriculturist can provide moisture for his crops when they need it, without paying high water charges every year. Windmills, of course, can be utilized in the same way.

On the other hand, the proposed development of water power in conjunction with irrigation from the Platte river promises cheap electric current for farmers as well as the residents of cities and villages, which they may not be able to get in any other way.

Irrigation possibilities from all sources are likely to be utilized more extensively in the future than in the past. Even the comparatively insignificant streams of eastern Nebraska will probably be made to yield their toll of moisture for growing crops. The board of control has taken the first step in that direction by obtaining a permit to pump water from Salt creek, which will be applied to the raising of garden crops for the penitentiary population.

During the past season, which was extremely hot and dry, enterprising market gardeners in and around Lincoln raised watermelons, canteloupes, cauliflower, and other crops by artificial watering. The experiment proved successful, and the operation along that line will be enlarged next year. Sooner or later, there may be some sort of an irrigation plant on almost every Nebraska farm or commercial garden tract.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS.

Time honored theories as to the causes of colds have become mere superstitions, according to the most eminent medical men in the country, for according to Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal American Medical association, the common cold is self limited and in the large majority of cases tends to get well without any medical treatment, except rest and the proper control of the bowels. And as it goes of itself, so it comes of itself.

Extensive investigations of colds have been carried on by such authorities as Dr. D. J. Smiley of Cornell university and Dr. William H. Barrow of Stanford university and they agree that there is absolutely nothing to the old theories.

Dr. Smiley studied such factors as over-exercise, cold baths, loss of sleep, drafts, kinds of underwear worn, kinds of shoes worn in wet weather, perspiration after exercise, constipation, mouth breathing, removal of the tonsils and adenoids and heredity. His conclusion was that not one of thes factors could be considered the actual major factor in the causation of the disease.

Then, after full investigation, Dr. Barrow concluded that extreme climatic conditions, such as exist in Massachusetts and other northern states, as compared with the milder climate of California, is not a major factor in "catching cold." Going still further the various systems of heat were investigated, coal, wood, steam, hot air, gas, oil, and no heat at all. These did not appear to influence in the slightest degree the number of colds. Nor was any difference found in sleeping on a porch constructed for that purpose, in a well ventilated bedroom or a poorly ventilated one. In conclusion he found that people who went to California had just about as many colds in that state as they had had at home.

All of which leads Dr. Fishbein to the belief that "the cold is caused by some definite bacterial organism which grows best in the bodies of some persons, who provide it with what might be called an optimal soil. This soil is obviously a matter of the ability of the person to resist disease through placing his body in the best possible physical condition."

THE WORLD'S SHIPPING LEADER.

The crowds on London's streets some times stop to gaze at a sturdy Welshman as he knives his way through the masses. He stands six feet, seven inches, magnificently proportioned—the splendid picture of a physical giant. He is the type of physical manhood to command attention anywhere and he gets it. He is Baron Kylsant, whose purchase of the White Star line, for $34,000,000 the other day, placed him in command as the world's greatest shipping operator.

The career of this great Welshman is as fascinating as any story of the sea.

Born with a tremendous capacity for work, business shrewdness, and a desire for power, he has risen from a position of little importance with a Glasgow shipping firm to control of 538 ships, trading in all parts of the world. His next greatest rival for shipping honors has never had control of more than 130 ships, so the measure of Kylsant's domination may be judged from those figures. Two other ancient shipping dynasties, the Peninsular & Oriental and the Cunard lines, he surpassed in tonnage long ago. The Peninsular & Orient once offered the proud boast that it held "the Gorgeous East in Fee." Lord Kylsant's ships now challenge that supremacy. By adding the White Star line to the Royal Mail, he now plucks the feathers of the Cunard line in the North Atlantic.

How much Britain depends upon men of the type of Kylsant to bring the sorely-pressed empire through its present troubles may be inferred from the fact that it has been commonly recognized that she is finished when she loses her "sea sense." The storm and stress of the world war cost her naval supremacy. But it did not shake her dogged hold on leadership in the cargo-carrying trade. In spite of the seemingly insurmountable handicaps which she had to overcome, with staggering losses of merchant vessels in the ruthless warfare of the submarine, she has steadily forged ahead. She leads today by a more decisive margin than when Europe was shaking with the roar of cannon.

If a few men of the stripe of Kylsant can be spared for a few years, the British empire need have no fears of retaining her role as mistress of the seas. The world's greatest shipper did not come from a seagoing family. He started in a most humble way. But through sheer ability he has won his way to the top and there is no one on the horizontoday to challenge his supremacy. He is one of the men to whom Britain can look forward with assurance that he will see it through the most trying days the British empire has experienced since her flag has floated on the seven seas.

THE OLD ORDER PASSES.

That old gag about having to wait for the girls to dress is rapidly becoming obsolete.

A series of tests held in Chicago recently demonstrated a girl can dress four times as swiftly as a man. Feminine superiority cannot be ascribed to greater deterity and skill in dressing, however. The plain blunt truth is that she puts on less than the average man today.

The young woman, who won the Chicago contest, wore slippers, hose, stepins, a brassiere and a dress. The nearest male competitor wore sox, oxfords, underwear, shirt, trousers, belt, collar, tie and coat. A pat or two of her bobbed head sufficed to take care of the problem of her hair. The man had to comb his. The woman piled up enough lead to use her lipstick and powder her nose.

Shortly we will have the spectacle of the girl waiting disconsolately while the man completes his dressing. Even at that turn about is fair play. Things used to be different, you know.

The Divine Right of Kings was the basis of the old sovereignty; the Dollar Right of Republicans the basis of the new. And who can say which is the more sinister for the peace of the world?—Francis P. Miller in "The World Tomorrow."

More Truth Than Poetry.

If apples had not been invented
The world would not be what it is;
When Adam, coaxed by Eeve, consented
He thought the pleasure all was his.
No doubt the bite he took was pleasant,
But if he had refused to fall
The silk worms would be free at present
To sit and do no work at all.

And Paris, handing Aphrodite
The golden apple, started things
That angered little gods and mighty,
And made hot work for many kings.
How oft the apple that was tendered
To beauty's queen by that young fool
Has given headaches and engendered
Annoyances and hate in school!

When William Tell took up his arrow
He may have shown no nervous sign,
But one can fancy that the marrow
Congealed within the hero's spine.
The apple probably was sour,
Perhaps a worm lay at the core,
But in that great and dreadful hour
An apple fixed men's fate once more.

Well, why, at this time, be repeating
These apple stories, do you ask?
It's apple week, and time for eating
To ease the doctor's heavy task.
Pass the good word onward gayly,
Cheer the busy groceryman;
Eat a dozen apples daily—
Eat two dozen, if you can.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children."

Cracking Bones.

Every bone in Mrs. W.'s body cracks! And when she sets up in the morning, her ankles are so stiff she can hardly stand. She is five feet, three inches tall and weighs 150 pounds.

Those of you who follow the column know exactly what I'm going to say, don't you?—that 25 pounds or so of excess weight, Mrs. W., may account for your noisy condition.

Your wrong diet, which is no doubt excessively high in starches and sweets is not only the cause of your overweight, but may be one of the causes of your joint trouble, for the newer work on chronic inflammation of the joints shows that the resistance of the joint tissues (as well as that of the other tissues of the body) is lowered so that slow chronic infection can get a camping room. Don't you know how to reduce your weight? You may have our booklet of instructions by sending ten cents in stamps with a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope. Also ask for the article on Chronic Arthritis.

I must add that you should have a physical examination to see if there is any local infection which is acting as a distributing agent for the germs—decayed teeth, inflamed ears, bad tonsils, etc.

Persistent Greasy Skin.

R. wrote for our article on Acne, and by following its directions was benefitted a great deal. However, he is still bothered by a greasy skin and some pimples and it is terribly disheartening. He realizes that something more than correct living is required to curb the activity of the sebaceous glands. Could he not get at them by taking some medicine or by some other mode of treatment? A fellow told him that drinking a teaspoonful daily of turpentine would help. Do I think it would, or would it end all his troubles?

While turpentine is used occasionally internally, R., (sometimes in cases of worms and to expel gas), it is given in very small doses and always under a doctor's direction. Turpentine, if applied to the skin for any length of time, will blister it, so you can see that it might cause the same trouble in the intestines and stomach. If taken in as large a dose as you mention, it would probably inflame the kidneys and cause a scanty and bloody urine. Yes, it might end all of your troubles!

No, don't take it R. There's no doubt that you do need measures other than general hygienic living and home local tretment, and if you will re-read the article again, you will see that I said some cases are stubborn and must be treated by a skin specialist, perhaps with the specially constructed lights or peeling or other measures. I suggest you go to a specialist. Meanwhile, continue your hygienic living which has helped you so much.

(Those who need the articles on Acne may have it by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.)

Nose Screws.

Mr. A. is suffering from an overlarge nose and says he is using an apparatus with screws in it, which doesn't seem to help much.

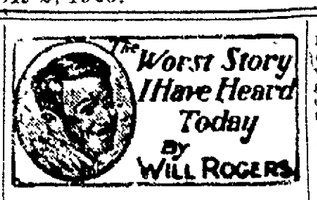

No, that contribution wouldn't help at all, A. If your nose is really deformed, you can have it remedied by a skillful plastic surgeon (not a beauty specialist). That's the only thing that offers any remedy. If you do not know any surgeons in your city, ring up your County Medical Society or the Board of Health, and ask for a list. You might have a consultation with one or more of them.

Tomorrow—Foot Defects in Children.

My dear Followers:

When sending for material, which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, NOT OVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE if you expect me to send you the information requested.

Neighbors have scrapped more or less ever since Adam's daughter went out and started keeping house next door to the old folks, I'm told. Some people never have fights with the neighbors, but mostly these people have no dogs, chickens, automobiles or babies. It's funny what things the neighbors will row about, and sometimes they are right dignified folks, too.

But I was told about two fellows that just wouldn't fight. They lived right next door to one another, in Philadelphia, maybe it was. One guy one morning started to apologize to the other.

"Say, Brown," he says, "I'm awful sorry that my dog chased your cat. Set up a devil of a row last night, when you were having company."

"Oh, that's all right," said Smith. "The company was drinking some of your wine, and never noticed it. I was just going to tell you about it. One of the boys made a mistake and took the jug out of your car, thinking it was mine."

"Why, don't mention it. That wine, though, I'm forced to apologize for. I had just taken it to be tested, and the druggist says it's poison."

"Well, a few of the boys did get sick, but that made no difference. But I was sorry that my cat ate up your canary."

"Well, as far as that's concerned, my dog was chasing her just for that, and I was afraid to mention it, but he killed her."

"Oh, shucks, what's a cat more or less anyhow? Didn't you know that when I was backing out of the garage this morning I ran over your dog while he was trying to bury my cat in your bluegrass?"

Stewart Urges Farmers of Missouri Valley States Get Back of River Improvement

BY C. B. STEWART.
(Secretary Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.)

The recent annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association, held in St. Louis, Nov. 22 and 23, was the most important meeting ever held by this association both in attendance and in the interest shown in the development of a national policy, which will make available 12,000 miles of our internal waterways for navigation purposes. Our rapidly increasing population and expansion in commerce and industry make it imperative that we shall give thoughtful study to a full utilization of the potential transportation capacity of our great Mississippi river system.

For many years in the past congressional action in the framing of River and Harbor bills has been subject to the criticism of political intrigue rather than a well thought out national policy for the full development of our natural channels of transportation which would follow a systematic improvement for navigation purposes of our inland water systems. Providence provided our country with two great natural water systems. The Great Lakes and their connection with the sea, and the Mississippi river and its important tributaries, the Ohio, Illinois and Missouri rivers.

The present policy of congress of enacting river and harbor improvement legislation in accordance with the reports and recommendations of the Board of Army Engineers insures the development of water borne transportation in an efficient and systematic manner and at the least possible cost to the tax payers of the nation. The rapid increase in tonnage of agricultural and industrial products due to the rapid increase in population and improvement in methods of production makes it absolutely necessary that we greatly expand our transportation facilities during the next twenty-five years. The rivers of the Mississippi system traverse the richest and most productive agricultural section in the world and have made possible the great expansion of our domestic and foreign commerce since the close of the World war.

As a result of the economic changes which resulted from the war the cost of transporting the surplus products of this great agricultural region has increased to the point where it has become a great burden to the farmer and is a serious obstacle to his economic recovery from the effects of the deflation following the close of the war.

The opening of the Panama Canal and the development of water borne commerce still further aggravated the transportation difficulties of a greatly depressed industry. The high railroad rates forced upon agriculture and industry in the middlewest served to isolate this section of the country from other sections that are now enjoying an unprecedented degree of prosperity. Manufacturers and industry moved to the regions enjoying the effect of cheaper water rates but the farmers could not move their lands and were forced to accept the increase in their transportation costs.

The solution of this difficulty is the development for navigation purposes of the rivers of the Mississippi system so as to provide water transportation to the Gulf and through the Illinois river to the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Sea Board. Great progress in this development of inland navigation has been made since the war. The Ohio River project is nearing completion thus providing water transportation from the great coal and iron producing districts to the southwest. Last year 5,000,000 tons of bulk freight were transported on the Ohio river at a saving of millions of dollars in freight charges. Barge service has been established on the Mississippi from St Louis to New Orleans and vast quantities of bulk agricultural commodities are being transported over this route. The saving in the cost of transporting bulk agricultural products by water or by a combination of rail and water, may be visualized in a study of comparative transportation costs of wheat. Taking the country as a whole it costs $150 to $200 to move 1000 bushels of wheat 1000 miles by rail. The same wheat can be moved the same distance by Mississippi river barge for $60 to $70 and on the Great Lakes or by the sea for $20 to $30.

With the completion of the work on the Mississippi, the Ohio, the Illinois to the Great Lakes and the Missouri to Yankton, South Dakota and the establishment of navigation and barge lines for the movement of surplus agricultural products after reaching the river terminals as well as the inbound movement of coal, iron and steel lumber, malt and other bulky products used in large quantities in the development of the west, a new era of prosperity such as we have never before witnessed would be inaugurated. All of these projects have been provided for by previous bills and appropriations, including the Missouri river from its mouth to Kansas City. It is of great importance that the vast agricultural territory north and west of Kansas City should also benefit in this development of waterways to provide cheaper transportation. The lower Missouri river improvement as far up as Kansas City will be completed and open to navigation in about two years according to the report of the chief of army engineers. Already preparation is being made by business interests for the building of barges and boats for use on this stretch of the river.

The Board of Army Engineers report favorably on the engineering feasibility of the improvement of the Upper Missouri from Kansas City to Sioux City, Iowa. The problems of the improvement of the upper river are no different then those encountered on the lower river and that are now being successfully solved, so that a permanent nine foot channel will be maintained as far north as Kansas City.

The present river and harbor bill now pending before congress passed the House with a full authorization for the improvement of the Upper Missouri from Kansas City to Sioux City, Iowa. The senate Committee on Commerce which had the bill for consideration in the report to the senate has reported a substitute amendment for the House provision which is extremely unfair to the section of the country interested in the improvement of the upper river. The senate amendment does not authorize a continuous policy of improvement but provides for special improvement work which has always lacked the elements of permanency and is wasteful of public funds. The senate amendment also requires co-operative contributions from the communities that will be benefitted by the bank protection incident to confining the river to a permanent channel for navigation purposes. This is a very unfair provision and has never been imposed upon the people of any other section in the development of navigable waterways. The establishment of navigation on the Upper Missouri river is of just as much importance to the progress of the nation as a whole as the opening of water navigation to any other region of such vast natural resources. Why should the people bordering this stream have a special tax burden placed

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID now sold by Harley Drug Co., and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.—Advertisement.

LANGERMAN-HANSEN WEDDING SOLEMNIZED.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Langerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Langerman, to Harry A. Hansen took place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. H. J. Eggold read the marriage service beneath a white arch twined with smilax. On each side of the altar were tall pedestal baskets filled with pink roses and lavender pom poms.

Preceding the service Miss Margaret Bauer of Deshler sang "The Lord is My Shepherd," accompanied by Prof O H. Sunderman, who played the Lohengrin bridal music as a processional, and the Mendelssohn as a recessional.

Mrs. R. E. Fosbury, a sister of the bride, was her matron of honor, and wore a frock of orchid georgette made over taffeta of the same shade. The bridesmaids, entering two and two were Miss Annette Seelhoff of Syracuse, who wore a flock of green georgette beaded, and Miss Eula Gillespie, who appeared in yellow georgette and taffeta combined, trimmed with gold lace. Next came Miss Helen Meyer in pink beaded georgette over satin of the same shade, and Miss Ruth Hansen, whose gown was of blue georgette. All of the frocks were fashioned alike with the tight bodice and bouffant skirt. The attendants carried shepherd's staffs decorated with flowers and tied with large ribbon bows the color of the frocks. Each girl wore a headband of rhinestones.

Little Betty Elaine Fosbury in a pink, ruffled frock of georgette scattered rose petals which she carried in a Princess basket. Little Opal Hansen, wearing blue georgette over taffeta, carried the ring in a calla lily.

Walter J. Butt of Chicago was the best man, and Charles P. Hansen, Fred Wolfe, and Walter Langerman were the ushers.

The bridal gown was of white satin made colonial style with a snug bodice of the satin, and the bouffant skirt fashioned with three tiers of rose point lace. The motif of the lace was edged with rhinestones and crystal beads, and the same trimming outlined the neck and sleeve line. The veil of tulle, edged with rose point lace, was held to the head coronet style, and she carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses with a shower of rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 1002 Sumner street. A motif of orchid and pink was used throughout all of the rooms, and a large basket filled with pink roses and orchid pom poms centered the serving table. Cutting the ices and cake were Mrs. David Greisel and Mrs. Walter Langerman. Mrs. Norris Graham and Mrs. Herman Klute of Seward poured coffee. Serving punch in the receiving rooms were Mrs. Karl Meyer and Miss Olga Bronson.

During the reception a program of music was given by a trio composed of Miss Frieda Hansen, piano; Miss Lorraine Gries, violin, and Mrs. John Helm, saxaphone. Miss Margaret Bauer sang, "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly."

Mr. Hansen and his bride left late in the evening for a short honeymoon trip after which they will reside in Lincoln. The bride wore a traveling costume of tan crepe with accessories to match.

ENGAGEMENT OF DONNA RAE KITE ANNOUNCED.

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Donna Rae Kite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Kite of College View, to Ted Smith of Denver was announced at two parties, one given Wednesday afternoon, and the other Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Howard May, 1221 H street, College View. The guest list numbered twenty-five at each party. Pink and white formed a color note for the decorations throughout the house, and also were used in the appointments for the luncheon which was served late in the afternoon, and the supper, which was served late in the evening. A mock wedding was the feature of the evening's entertainment. Little Mary Weise sang an original love song written for Miss Kite.

Miss Kite is a graduate of the College View high school, and Mr. Smith is a former student of the Colorado agriculture college.

STATE BOARD OF LEAGUE TO MEET.

The state board of the League of Women Voters will meet this evening at 7:30 with Mrs. E. M. Forsyth, 2860, Manse avenue. Tomorrow, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, the League will convene for an all day meeting at their headquarters on Rudge and Guenzel's balcony. In the absence of the state president, Mrs. Charles Deitrich, the first vice-president, Mrs. Forsyth, will preside. Miss Ruth McIntosh of St. Louis, regional secretary, will arrive in Lincoln in time for the Friday meeting

GIVES A LUNCHEON FOR SARA GELSIN.

In compliment to her sister, Miss Sara Gelsin, Mrs. Ralph Dworsky entertained at a luncheon today at Hotel Lincoln, for sixteen guests A color note of rose and green was introduced in the centerpiece of pink roses in a green bowl. Gold candelabra on each side of the center, contained green tapers, Following the luncheon the afternoon was devoted to bridge. Miss Rose Chesin of Sioux City, Ia, was an out of town guest.

VESTALS DINNER AT UNIVERSITY CLUB.

The active and alumnae members of the Vestals, honorary arts and science organization for women, held a dinner Wednesday evening at the University club. A color note of yellow and blue, introduced in a center piece of yellow chrysanthemums in a blue bowl, and matching tapers on each side, formed the table decorations. Dr. H. B. Alexander, the speaker of the evening, talked on "The Poetry of Everyday Life." During the evening Miss Ruth Coddington gave a group of harp numbers. Guests at the dinner included Dr. and Mrs. Alexander, Dean and Mrs. H. G. James, and Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Rice.

DEPARTMENT TO HEAR OF NEW LEGISLATION.

The Civics department of the Lincoln woman's club meets Friday at 3 o'clock in Social Science hall on the university campus. Mrs. J. H. Johnson will speak on "New Bills in the Legislature Which Will Be Of Interest to Women."

MR. AND MRS. McARTHUR TO ENTERTAIN CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McArthur will entertain the members of their bridge clubs this evening at their home, 1933 Harwood street. There will be five tables of players, and the tallies and other accessories for the bridge tables will introduce a Christmas motif. Late in the evening supper will be served at the small tables. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kendall will be guests.

TO GIVE LUNCHEON FOR MRS RUSSELL.

MAYOR DISCUSSES 'SPEED' PROBLEM

Make the Entire Family Walk For Any Violation Says Zehrung.

Doubt Success of Duncan's Vigilance Committee Plan.

Application of the Golden Rule in driving raising the speed limit from 18 to 20 miles an hour on streets other than arterial thoroughfares in the residential sections, and from 12 to 15 miles in the business district, and rigid enforcement of the law, is the solution of the speed problem, in the opinion of Mayor Zehrung expressed at a community meeting of women at the home of Mrs. T. S. Allen, Thursday morning. The mayor added that he would also "make the entire family walk" when any member is found guilty of violating the laws by locking up the car."

Make the whole family suffer, the mayor said, when some member violates the traffic ordinances and "see how soon there will be something doing toward lessening the number of accidents."

Blame for fast driving by delivery boys was placed by the mayor on the shoulders of the housewife who insists on the grocer making "hurry-up deliveries."

Setting up of a vigilance committee as advocated by Commissioner Duncan in an address Wednesday night would not bring the desired result, the mayor declared "It has been tried," he added, "and was a failure. It would fail again of its own weight," he said.

"Regulating speeding, however, reverts to the same old question," the mayor said. "We have not the money to employ traffic officers to make arrests, and the people have said in no uncertain way they will not give it to us, so what can we do. Statutes could be enacted by the score but they would be valueless."

Doubt Success of Plan.

The suggestion made by Duncan last night was being discussed at the city hall Thursday morning and the prevailing opinion was taht "it the prevailing opinion was that "it fore."

What Lincoln needs is a wheel tax, one city official declared. A wheel tax, according to this official, will raise at least $100,000 annually. This, he said, could be diverted to the street department for street cleaning, paving repair, and other street needs thereby releasing a similar amount for general appropriation that could be added to the police department funds. "I would then employ about a dozen additional motorcycle cops and send them into all sections with instructions to arrest every violator of traffic regulations. This should be followed by infliction of the heaviest penalty."

The official also suggested that every driver of an automobile be required to have a driving license. This must be carried whenever a person is driving. Failure to have it would deprive the holder of his driving privilege and also subject the owner of the car to having the machine locked up, he added.

Plenty of traffic officers and fear that cars are going to be locked up, coupled with the threat that the driver upon conviction would go to jail, will reduce the number of "hit and run" accidents and the desire of many drivers to "beat the other fellow to the intersections," the official said.

upon them in order to secure the benefit of a navigation system which they have already contributed to, through the national treasury for the benefit of other districts that are a part of the entire system.

The Mississippi Valley association speaking for the agricultural and business interests of the entire Mississippi Basin, criticised the senate provision and passed resolutions requesting the senate to restore the house provision granting full authorization for the improvement of the Upper Missouri. Every farmer and business man in the Missouri River territory is urged to write the senators of his respective state that the House provision for the Upper Missouri should be restored in the senate and the entire river and harbor bill should receive the hearty support of every senator in the 21 states of the Great Mississippi river system. No more constructive legislation for the development of our great arterial waterways, our inter-coastal canals and improvement of harbors has ever bene proposed.

The bill comes up for consideration in the senate on December 14. Every citizen of the state should let his senators know that he realizes the importance of developing cheaper transportation facilities than we now enjoy and the only way to do it is to restore full authorization for the Upper Missouri on the same basis as other river improvements projects and then pass the bill. Senators who oppose such a program are negligent of the interests of their constituency.

MISTRIAL DENIED; DEFENSE IS NOW ADDRESSING JURY

After Summing Up Addresses, Hall-Mills Case Goes to Jury Friday.

Court Refuses Mistrial Plea Asked On Grounds That Jurors Were Hostile.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2. —(By the Associated Press.)—As the Hall-Mills murder trial neared an end today, with a verdict of acquittal forecast by the prosecution, attention was centered on a request by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson for an investigation of the administration of justice in Somerset county.

Simpson telephoned to Governor Moore in Trenton from Jersey City last night after his motion for a mistrial had been denied.

Simpson said regarding his talk with the governor: "In my opinion, and according to the evidence of the detectives, the jury in the Hall-Mills case should not be permitted to pass on the case. In view of the fact that the jury will be permitted to deliberate on the evidence, despite what was brought out in court, I suggested that he order an investigation."

Governor Moore declined to comment on Simpson's suggestion for an investigation or on dispatches from the state capital yesterday to the effect that high authority there had said an acquittal in the present trial would end all activity in the Hall-Mills prosecution.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The state's failure to have a mistrial declared Wednesday in the Hall-Mills case allowed the trial to progress to the speech making stage. The first of a series of extended summing up speeches was begun yesterday afternoon, with indications last night that the case would be given to the jury Friday. All of today and a portion of the next day are expected to be occupied with addresses to the jury.

The application for a mistrial was denied by the court without comment.

Only a part of the speeches was delivered Wednesday, Robert H. McCarter opening for the defense, holding the floor at the close of court day when he had spoken for two hours and fifteen minutes. He will speak probably for another hour today and will be followed by Clarence E. Case to continue the defense summing up.

The state's application for a mistrial was made at the opening of court, Simpson accusing the jury of undue sleepiness and of hostility to the state's cause and also charged the jury was inadequately guarded.

Affidavits were submitted from newspaper reporters and detectives that certain jurors had been seen nodding. Other affidavits said the jurors had been permitted to speak to persons not on the jury when bailiffs were not present. A statement, later reduced to affidavit form, declared the special prosecutor and Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, had been referred to in terms of opprobrium.

Second Motion Denied.

The jury, out of the court room while the state's representative preferred charges against its members, returned and the case went on.

Little testimony remained and it was soon disposed of.

The sur-rebuttal occupied by a short time. Elbridge W. Stein, an expert on questioned documents, while not permitted to give any opinion on claims of the state that enlarged photographs of finger prints used by the defense were "distorted," found nothing wrong with the 1922 diary of Henry Stevens.

State handwriting experts had found flaws in the entries under date of September 14, the night Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills and the Rev. Edward W. Hall were slain. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and Henry and Willie Stevens are charged with the murder of Mrs. Mills.

Simpson renewed his motion for a mistrial and produced an affidavit from Gilbert Van Dorn, owner and resident of the hotel which is the home of the jury during the trial. This document claimed that some members of the jury have indicated a prejudice against the state and told of his argument with one juror as to the credibility of Mrs. Gibson. The court again reversed decision, but immediately on reconvening after the luncheon recess denied the motion and instructed the attorneys to start summing up.

Fortune For Picture Alarms British

"Pinkie," a portrait bought by Americans for $377,000.

LONDON—Englishmen are distraught over the loss of another valuable painting to the United States—a painting that has been sold at such a huge sum nobody in England was able or cared to bid higher.

"Pinkie," by Sir Thomas Lawrence, auctioned off from the Michelham collection, has brought 74,000 guineas—approximately $377,000. Duveen Brothers, international art brokers, who bid in this painting, are of course sending it to New York. The price is a record breaker for a public auction of pictures. Last year Romney's "Mrs. Davenport" sold for $300,000.

"Pinkie" was only one of the pictures auctioned off at this sale. Prices, to the alarm of British art lovers, were sensational. Two panels by Boucher brought in the neighborhood of $225,000. "A Portrait of Miss Tatton" by Gainsborough sold for $230,000, the sum being 500 times more than the sum the artist received for his canvas.

Painted in 1795, "Pinkie" is a full-length oil portrait of Miss Mary Moulton Barrett, a daughter of an old Isle of Wight family, and aunt of Elizabeth Barret Browning.

Plans Progress For Meeting of Nation's Editors

G. D. McClaskey, publicity director for the 1927 National Editorial association convention in Omaha and educational and sight-seeing tour of Nebraska and the Black Hills country, met with the publicity committee and others of the chamber of commerce in Omaha Wednesday and discussed convention plans.

Omaha is all set to take care of the convention in a wonderfully big way, and that which Omahans especially wanted to know at this time was how the towns over the state and in the Black Hills country were lining up for their part of the program and entertainment.

Mr. McClaskey reported that a number of the Nebraska and Black Hills towns which, according to tentative plans, are on the route of sight-seeing tour, have their part of the program well under way and are enthusiastic over making this the greatest event for Nebraska during the year 1927. Information reaching the headquarters of the Nebraska N. E. A. convention committee in Lincoln not only is coming from Nebraska and Black Hills points but from one end of the United States to the other.

The secretary of the press association for the state of Washington says that Nebraska may be assured of the cooperation of the newspapermen of Washington in making this convention the largest and most successful in the history of the organization. Utah sends a promise to be well represented. The Texas delegation has been made up for some time. From North Carolina comes information that that state will invade Nebraska with a large delegation. Incidentally, North Carolina hopes to capture the convention for 1928.

John A. Stanley, publisher of the Lead (S. D.) Daily Call, advises that the Black Hills Press association has been working on its part of the program for some time.

Among the Nebraska towns that are right up on their toes in making preparations to assist in entertaining the convention and which have just made favorable reports to the Nebraska convention committee headquarters in Lincoln are Fremont, Chadron, Hastings and Kearney. Other towns will be ready with information regarding their plans at an early date.

In addition to information received from press associations and chamber of commerce, letters are coming from individuals who are greatly interested in the 1927 convention. Some of these individuals are known internationally as editors and authors. This is especially true of at least two Kansas editors, W. Y. Morgan of the Hutchinson News and William Allen White of the Emporia Gazette, who have written that they would like to "take in" the convention and tour next June.

American Consul In Western Samoa Gets Buick Program

Quincy F. Roberts, American vice consul in charge of the American consular service at Apia, western Samoa, picked up the Nebraska Buick station several months ago, and acknowledge receipt of the program.

Roberts and his men then arranged with the Nebraska Buick Automobile company for a date, at which time those of the American consular service together with the U. S. Naval Radio Station NPU, at Pago Pago, American Samoa, would be listening in for the purpose of a test program.

The Lincoln station KFAB was to begin its broadcasting in the regular way, and with the normal power and same wavelength at 3:00 a. m., Dec. 1, Wednesday morning. The time in Samoa was Tuesday, November 30th, 9:30 p. m.

The staff of the Buick station were in their positions ready to take the air at exactly 3:00 a. m., Wednesday, and carried on their program, Mr. Grubb, chief announcer of KFAB, handled the entire program and talked to those who were listening. Many interesting things, including events that were happening in the central western United States, were related to the distant listeners.

Wednesday afternoon, near he hour of five, a cablegram was received from Mr. Quincey F. Roberts, stating that the entire program was received very clear, proving that the test was a great success.

The following is the cablegram received by KFAB:

870 MR CABLE VIA BAM., Apia, Samoa, 920 AM Dec. 1, 1926.

Radio Station KFAB, Lincoln, Neb.: Entire program received.

ROBERTS. 640-P

This experiment was proven very interesting to the radio public, and adds to the already long list of listeners of the Buick staion who are located in remote parts of the world.

Near Five Million Dollars Paid For Tax Upon Gasoline

Gasoline tax collections by the state of Nebraska total $4,807,257 in 19 months since the law became effective April 1, 1925, up to and including receipts for October, this year, paid in during November. This is an average of over $253,000 per month. The winter months will bring down the average somewhat, consumption being lowest at this time of year.

October revenue this year was $280,300, being $944 above September. Last year, the gas tax yielded only $244,378 during October.

Chief Bass of the state collection bureau hopes to come near the $6,000,000 mark in the first two full years of the law's operation. It will require an average of $239,000 per month for November and the next four months to reach that figure.

Club Refuses To Consider Movement For City Manager

Knife and Fork club members tactily refused at their luncheon this noon at the Lincoln hotel to take up as an issue the city manager form of government for Lincoln.

C. M. Sutherland proposed the project as an activity for the organization. Recent elections have shown, he declared, that citizens here are dissatisfied with the present form of government. George H. Rogers replied, however, that no government is better than the men who run it and change in forms would never be a material help. The subject then was dropped.

Programs for the club and means of increasing membership were the topics for discussion. John O. Chapman led with a plea for friendliness. Dr. P. J. Bentz also made a short talk and several others joined the discussion. It seemed to be the general opinion that the present system of talks on a variety of subjects by experts should be continued, and that the opinion of the women should be ascertained before making up evening programs.

Middlekauff Takes Charge of Singing Carols This Year

The Lincoln recreation board met today at the chamber of commerce.

J. R. Batchelor from the National Playground association in New York was a guest of the local organization, and is in Lincoln on a supervisory visit. Earl Johnson, secretary of the board, reported on the program of the recreation board and explained the use of the service bureau. Dr. Stanley J. Welch, was granted a leave of absence of six months, during which time he will tour Europe, visiting playgrounds in the different countries. Dr. Welch will take a moving picture camera with him in order to bring back to the board the ideas which he expects to get. O. J. Fee was elected chairman of the board in Dr. Welch's absence.

The board also discussed the city Christmas carol program. Earl Middlekauff is to be in charge.

GOVERNMENT RESTS ITS OIL LEASE CASE

"What did Mr. Fall tell you?"

"He told me to go ahead."

"Did you show him the navy specifications?"

"Yes."

"Did he make any suggestions for change?"

"No."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The defense today began its frontal onslaught on the massed accumulation of evidence submitted by the government in an effort to prove that Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior and Edward L. Doheny, the oil man, were guilty of conspiracy in the famous naval reserve oil leases.

After having obtained from the prosecution's own witnesses, every vestige of testimony they believed would aid their clients, the lawyers for the two defendants turned toward their own store of testimony.

The prosecution wound up early in the day with a brief questioning of Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, whose prosecution of the oil investigation before a senate committee brought to light the developments on which the present trial is based.

Identifies Summary.

Senator Walsh identified the summary of a letter in the senate record written by him to Fall in January 1924, seeking information about $100,000 which had come into Fall's possession while the negotiations were pending for the lease of the Elk Hills, Cal., naval reserve, which later was turned over to Doheny's company.

Fall's reply said the money came from Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, but later it was developed that it came from Doheny, who has described it as a friendly loan.

The government won another point when the court admitted in evidence over a defense objection, a 1922 contract between the Pan-American Co. and the Associated Oil Co. at a premium of 15 cents a the Pan-American sold oil to the Associated. The prosecution offered the contract in support of its contention that the oil obtained through the Elk Hills contract was immediately sold to the Associated OilCo. at a premium of 15 cents a barrel.

Hope to Finish December 20.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The government needed only a few minutes today to wind up its case against Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, California oil man, charged with criminal conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the Elk Hills, Cal., naval oil reserve.

Senator Walsh of Montana, who had prosecuted the senate oil investigation, of which the present trial is one of the many court-sequels, was the last witness on the prosecution's lists of more than two dozen, through whom it has placed before the jury its version of the alleged conspiracy.

With the defense planning to present about fifty witnesses, it appeared likely that the trial could be finished by December 20, the date originally aimed at, without further night sessions.

H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, headed the list of defense witnesses, as an official who had intimate knowledge of the arrangement's under which the interior department, acting on authority conveyed in an executive order by President Harding, leased the navy department's oil reserves in Wyoming and California and effected the contract with Doheny's interests for construction of the naval oil storage plant at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Harding's Name to Fore.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—A new guide post in the legal wilderness centered on the oil reserve leasing policies of the Harding administration was reared in the Supreme court of the District of Columbia Wednesday when government counsel virtually completed their case in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial.

The defense will begin presentation of evidence today after a ten-minute re-examination of Senator Walsh of Montana, the senate oil committee's prosecutor three years ago, on technical points.

Half a dozen witnesses were called by the prosecution yesterday in an effort to establish personal responsibility of former Secretary Fall of the interior department for the major developments in the oil leasing program. In every case, the defense, on cross examination, sought to establish that the intimate contact maintained by the navy department with negotiations involving naval reserves were such as to render impossible any collusion between Fall and Edward L. Doheny in the interest of Doheny's pan-American Petroleum company, lessee of the Elk Hills, Calif., reserve.

A letter from President Harding, June 7, 1922, to the senate, in response to a resolution requesting information on the administration's leasing policy, was offered by the defense.

Submitted to Harding.

"I think it is only fair to say in this connection," the letter read, "that the policy which has been adopted by the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior in dealing with these matters was submitted to me prior to the adoption thereof, and the policy decided upon and the subsequent acts have at all times had my entire approval."

Previous evidence by the prosecution had fixed the date of the Pan-American Co.'s contract for the Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, naval storage base as April 25, 1922. This contract, gave the Doheny interests "preferential rights" on such portions of the California naval reserve as might be thereafter opened to leasing.

Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy when Fall was a member of the cabinet, told the jury his recommendation that secrecy be preserved in negotiations for the Pearl Harbor project was dictated national interest, since the plans had come originally from the navy's war plans division.

CHINA SITUATION IS LESS SERIOUS

Danger To Foreigners At Hankow and Foochow Is Lessening.

Southern Government Will Move To Wuchang On December 5.

PEKING, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The danger to which foreigners at Hankow and Foochow have been exposed as the result of unrest and factional fighting is lessening.

Dispatches from foreign sources in the latter city received here today say there is fighting between the loyal Fukienese troops defending the city and the invading Cantonese. These advices declare the southerners are deflected back toward Canton. The various consuls there, however, are requesting their governments to send gunboats to protect their nationals.

At Hankow the situation eased as the Cantonese moved a step nearer in their desire to establish their capital city at Wuchang, by which they hope for unity control over the disintegrated republic.

An official message from Canton announced that the southern government would move to Wuchang December 5, its first group of officials and government archives.

Strike Set for Saturday.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Latest reports are that the threatened general strike against foreigners in Hankow has been set ofr December 4, Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain Wednesday told the house of commons.

With the possible exception of Hankow, Sir Austen said, there has been no reason at the present time to fear for the personal safety of British subjects in China's treaty ports.

British forces are available for landing in Hankow if necessary, the secretary said, and as far as he knew the shipping facilities, were adequate to evacuate the British citizens if an emergency should require it. He added that there was no reason to fear danger to British nationals living in isolated placed in the interior from anti-foreign outbreaks, although individual cases of danger were bound to occur.

A British sloop will be held in Hankow and river gunboats will move on the Yangtze river throughout the winter months.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The British government is not likely to abandon its policy of conciliation toward China because of the threatened situation at Hankow, it was indicated in the house of commons and other governmental quarters yesterday.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of foreign affairs, informed the house that there was no material change in the situation since Monday, when marines were landed. The threatened general strike against foreigners in Hankow, however, has been set for December 4.

SURPLUS CAUSING PARTY TAX FIGHT

Democratic House Leaders Favor Immediate Cut Of $350,000,000.

Republican Chieftains Announce Opposition To New Revenue Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—The breach between republicans and democrats over how to tap the treasury surplus to the best advantage to the taxpayers pocket book widened Wednesday at the capitol.

House democratic leaders after a conference came out in favor of an immediate $350,000,000 cut in tax rates, while republican party chieftains stoutly maintained that they would oppose a new revenue bill at the approaching session.

The democratic program, drafted by minority members of the house ways and means committee, which has initial jurisdiciton in taxation matters is based on an agreement reached between Representative Garner of Texas, ranking democrat on the committee, and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who heads the minority membership of the senate finance committee.

Under the democratic proposal, the 13 1-2 per cent corporation tax would be cut probably to 11 per cent. The plan was made public by Chairman Oldfield of the democratic congressional committee, who said:

Await Further Data.

"The exact rate of the corporation tax was left subject to determination after further figures for which the treasury has been as are available. It was the sense of the conference that the treasury will have a surplus at the end of the present fiscal year approximating a half billion dollars and that further relief to the taxpayers can well be afforded and ought to be given without delay."

Even before the democratic program had been announced, speaker Longworth, after a visit to the white house, asserted he was opposed to tax reduction at present and felt the treasury surplus should either be applied to President Coolidge's tax credit proposal or to reduction of the public debt.

The democratic plan also will encounter the opposition of Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee, who holds that the Seventieth congress would present the right time for a new revenue law, although in his opinion the president's proposal should be enacted at this session.

Both Madden and Longworth contended it was impossible to estimate returns under the present revenue act and that congress must go slow for that reason.

Chairman Green of the ways and means committee, and Representative Tilson, the republican leader, also take the position that the time is not ripe for a new tax bill.

Thaw In Exclusive Interview Tells Why He Aids Girl Held For Slaying

Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, tells a Central Press correspondent he has found happiness in aiding others with his money. He has engaged Mrs Dorothy Frooks as counsel to defend Mrs. Catherine De Nino, 16, who is held for killing a man she says betrayed her when she was 12. Photos are of Thaw (his latest portrait); Mrs. Frooks and her client, Mrs. De Nino; and the girl-wife's child, Albert.

NEW YORK.—Harry K. Thaw has found real happiness at last—in aiding the sorrowed!

Out of a turbulent life which has kept him in a spotlight of pitiless publicity for more than twenty years, the slayer of Stanford White has stepped into a new light. But this time it has been without any fanfare—beyond the rim of the public's gaze.

With deep feeling, borne of his own long suffering, he had been working quietly, unostentatiously—until Mrs. Catherine De Nino, 16, came from Evanston, Ill., to The Bronx, and shot the man who had betrayed her when she was but 12!

The girl, penniless, was lodged in jail without a friend to help her. Thaw, hearing of the story, and recalling the long tragedy of his own Evelyn Nesbit, promptly engaged counsel for her defense, sent money for her comfort, and suggested the line of action that, it is expected will save the girl from the electric chair.

Then, for the first time, did the world at large get a new inkling of Harry Thaw, heretofore pictured only as a sensationalist, rounder, habitue of night clubs and principal of divers escapades.

I called on him just as he was preparing to leave his hotel for a fortnightly visit to his mother in Pittsburgh. He was busy with his correspondence. There must have been fifty letters in the stack before him—just one day's contribution. The mail came from all over the country—for the most part from persons whom he did not know. There were business letters and crank notes—the usual dole, cast aside quickly. But there were also an astounding number of appeals for aid—none of which was thrown away.

Instead, Thaw handed them over to his secretaries (he has two) for investigation.

Thaw looks like a middle aged country banker. His hair is streaked a soft gray, his eyes are clear, his face firm, his skin smooth. He looks much younger than his fifty-odd years.

Tall, Straight as a Die, Looks Like Athlete.

As he arose from his desk, his six feet seemed taller than usual. He is as straight as a die, and his shoulders, despite the sorrows they bore, are as upright as those of a college athlete. Yet he takes no special exercise.

With a modesty that seemed genuine, he tried to veer off from the subject of his gallantry. He spoke of the increased sale of his book, "The Traitor." He discussed music, the opera, the latest plays.

Finally I pinned him down to a chat of his new work.

"It is nothing more than the square thing to do," he said rather reluctantly. "And I've been doing it right along—only nobody made any fuss about it—until this De Nino girl's case broke in the newspapers."

As Thaw spoke, there were visions of the past. For the De Nino affair has many of the elements of his own celebrated case. Here was a young girl ruined at an early age, married in time—only to have her happiness blighted by the man who ruined her; and then the unrestrainable impulse to clear things up by removing the cause.

Hasn't Seen the Girl He Is Helping.

"I've never see the girl," Thaw went on. "Don't expect to. When it is all over, I suppose she'll go back to her husband—with the baby she did not know was living. And, then, I suppose I'll never hear any more about the affair.

"Thanks? Who wants that?

"My pleasure comes in the helping."

Last summer Thaw bore the expenses of three playgrounds donated to the children of New York. He will not say just how much money these philanthropic pursuits have cost him.

He went on with his dictating, speaking quickly, with marked precision in his voice and clarity in his diction. Inadvertently I had referred to Mrs. Mary Thaw as his "ma."

"Mother is the word," Thaw shot out as he turned quickly. "Never 'ma.'"

We switched on to a talk of Broadway.

Has Broadway Changed? Yes, It Has!

How does the street compare with that of two decades ago when Madison Square Garden and its tower were the scenes of the big night life?

"Broadway then was putrid," replied Thaw. "It is incomparably better today.

"Perhaps I helped make the street safer. I hope so."

Back to his work.

His secretary told me that his response to appeals has been astounding. He could not break confidence and tell the names. But they were many and from all parts of the country.

As I was leaving, Thaw escorted me to the door most courteously.

"Lay off that helping angle, won't you?" he asked. "Really it is nobody's concern but my own.

"Of course it makes me very happy. But so does the improvement of my mother's health. Yet that is all purely personal."

But so are his escapades which periodically plunge him into the spotlight. Yet the man seems so much less lurid than the picture usually painted — and ever so much more human.

Presents Bill For Damage To Car By Escaped Youths

A bill of $125 for damage done to an automobile by two boys who escaped from the state industrial school at Kearney on November 4, stole the machine, and drove it to York that night has been sent to the board of control by the owner, Walter Nelson, a farmer living near Kearney. He claims the motor was permanently injured by driving it without water in the radiator.

The car was taken out of Nelson's garage and run on the road until the engine overheated and stopped, he claims. Then they filled the radiator but neglected to shut off one petcock, with the result that the water drained out and the motor heated up again. Two valve springs were melted down, Nelson asserts, and the boys ran the car on the other two cylinders the rest of the way to York.

Nelson got the car back at that place and spent $15, he says, getting it put back into shape for operation; but the motor does not behave as it did before, and he thinks it is practically ruined. He wants the $125 to pay for that damage and for the loss of tools and his repair bill.

Chairman Oberlies of the board of control is not sure that the state is liable for damage done by escaped inmates of its institutions. In any event, he objects to paying for more than the damage actually done. The claim will be investigated further.

ARREST ANARCHISTS.

MADRID, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Four alleged anarchists were arrested today, and, according to police, found in possession of firearms and hand grenades. The police allege the men were making plans to attack the king and General De Rivera.

To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

Harley Drug Co. Makes This Offer

Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You think perhaps you are suffocating.

You are dizzy and play for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

With this wonderful medicine you can overcome indigestion or dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach or any abnormal condition that keeps the stomach in constant rebellion and one bottle will prove it.

Over 6,000 bottles sold in one small New Jersey town last year—and the best druggists the country over concede that its phenomenal sales are due to the fact that the most stubborn chronic cases are promptly conquered. Ask for Dare's Mentha Pepsin, pleasant to take, health building stomach elixir that Harley Drug Co and regular pharmacists anywhere in America guarantee.—Advertisement.

Worker Loses His Life When Sewer Trench Caves In

SIDNEY, Neb., Dec. 2. — (AP)—Herbert Olson, 28, was crushed to death when a sewer trench at Chappell, in which he was working caved in late Wednesday. He was buried at the bottom of a seventeen foot ditch and was dead when dug out.

The excavations for the trunk and laterals of the sanitary sewer system, are being made by machinery. Olson was employed as a follow up man, loading loose dirt into a moving elevator.

The cave-in was noticed by the men operating the machinery, and the body was recovered in less than an hour. A Scottsbluff constructor is building the sewer. Olson was married and leaves a family.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.—Advertisement.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Kearn's Meal Ticket at Stake in Friday Rumpus

Jack's Last Hope Is For Mickey to Come Through

Tiger Flowers, However, Confident He Can Punch Kearns' Breakfast Card In Friday Fight At Chicago; Walker Will Be Battling To Regain His Lost Middleweight Laurels.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—In mid-Victorian fiction, it was the last chip flung desperately in the pot, that changed everything including some of the proprietor's very best bank notes; made a new man of the boy friend and lifted the mortgage on the old blacksmith shop. But we deal not with the late eighties but with modern Chicago where men are marksmen.

And so it may be that the latest bid of Jack Kearns and Mickey Walker for the fame they once knew is fated to be their last. There is an old gambling axiom that you never win when you need it.

Walker, said to have thrown off some of his premature rage, will meet Tiger Flowers, the colored gentleman from Georgia, at the Chicago coliseum tomorrow night in a bout for the middleweight championship and, offhand, the writer would venture that Kearns needs this one more than the average man needs a windpipe. A manager without anything in particular to manage is not far from obscurity.

Lost His Meal Tickets.

There is a lesson in human fallibility somewhere in this proposition. Two years ago, Kearns had everything including the world's heavyweight champion and one of the most popular boxers the welterweight championship has known. A turn of the wheel and all was gone.

Dempsey married, turned on his superior heel and left Kearns standing with his hat in his hand. Walker tried to win the middleweight title from Harry Greb, took a beating and then survived the Dave Shade issue only because the judges pulled one out of the hat. Early last summer, he blew the welterweight title to Pete Latzo and, in trying a come-back, was stopped by Joe Dundee.

Kearns, now, only has a shouting privilege with Dempsey and an exchampion who couldn't win. It was a question which was of less value to him.

Kearns Strong on Gab.

However, Walker was young and his dissipations were not serious, except for a piping rock exterior that included a comedian's vest. There still was a chance for the young man to see the error of his ways and perhaps Kearns has made the most of it.

Anyhow, the writer will say this for him: Few managers, past or present, could have jockeyed an exchampion into a title match in another class within six months of his official decapitation, as Kearns has done with Walker. Say what you will, Jack Kearns can talk his way in anywhere and out again if he doesn't like it.

Just how much he may have done in reclaiming some of Walker's lost ability will be answered tomorrow night. Mickey got the match by smacking Shuffle Callahan down, which is being done by our best people, and men whose judgment is above reproach have informed me that he stands an excellent chance of winning from Flowers. That may or may not be.

Flowers is neither the best nor the worst champion who ever held the middleweight title. He is hard to beat and probably is in better condition than he was last year. If Walker is right, it will be a great fight. If he isn't, it will be nothing of the kind.

Matsuyama Has Lead Over Bos

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Kinrey Matsuyama, defending his title as national junior 18.2 balk line billiard champion against Ary Bos, Philadelphia challenger, jumped into the lead last night in the second block of their 1,200 point match. At the end of the block Matsuyama had scored 800 points to 674 for the challenger, giving the title holder a lead of 126.

TIGER FLOWERS HAS AMBITIONS

Georgia Deacon To Seek Delaney Crown If He Beats Walker.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion of the world, will go after the light heavyweight title held by Jack Delaney, providing Flowers is successful in his middleweight clash with Mickey Walker at the Coliseum here tomorrow night.

Such was the statement today of Walk Miller, Flowers' ambitious manager, who believes a victory over Walker will have eliminated the last outstanding middleweight and that the Georgia Deacon will then be ready to seek new laurels in a heavier division.

Although Delaney has scored two victories over Flowers, Miller declared he is not convinced that Jack is the better man. Miller said:

Tiger Claims Foul.

"The second match between Flowers and Delaney should have been awarded to Tiger on a foul. Flowers was hit while on the floor and weakened to such an extent that he became an easy mark for the hard-hitting Delancy."

The Flowers-Walker affair tomorrow night is arousing more interest than any previous bout staged here since the rebirth of legalized boxing in Illinois. The advance sale of tickets, approximating $50,000, augurs a complete sellout.

Both in Excellent Trim.

Both champion and challenger have completed hard training and are reported in top condition. They will do just enough work today to keep on edge. Flowers had to train hard to make the 160-pound limit. He is confident he will not weigh over that when he steps on the scales tomorrow afternoon. Walker will weigh in around 156 pounds.

Following his fight with Walker, Flowers will leave for California where he is scheduled to meet Leo Lomski and Bert Colima, coast light heavyweights, in two matches in January.

Chicago Fans Excited.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, once the world's welterweight titleholder, will attempt to annex the world's middleweight championship tomorrow night, meeting Tiger Flowers, the Georgia deacon, in a ten-round contest to a referee's decision.

The match, the first major contest decided indoors since the enactment of a legalized glove fighting bill in Illinois, will be staged at the Coliseum with indications that the gate receipts will exceed $90,000. The prices range from $3 to $15, but all of the $3 and $5 seats have been sold. The battle, according to Promoter Jim Mullen, will draw a capacity crowd of 10,000.

Walker fighting at the 160-pound mark or slightly below that figure is figured to have an excellent chance of winning the title, in the judgment of his followers. They view the present day Walker—not the Walker who lost the welter crown to Pete Latzo—as the most formidable challenger matched with Flowers since the Georgia negro won his title.

Walker May Set Pace.

Walker, they say, has not been inclined to blow up in the stretch as he did when forced to train down to the welterweight limit. He realized his only chance to win the title will be to tear into the shifty, left-handed negro in the hope of terminating the battle with a knockout blow. The challenger enjoys a rushing attack. Jack Kearns, his manager, says Walker will crowd Flowers more than any recent opponent has done.

The former welterweight champion is confident of winning. He figures he will be speared plenty by the busy fists of the Tiger until he gets into range to use his own tactics to good advantage.

Flowers Lugs Punch.

Flowers while not a dangerous puncher, is possessed of many queer ways of throwing his fists around. He believes he is fast enough and clever to hold off Mickey's attack while piling up sufficient points to retain his honors.

The negro has trained down to 160 pounds, apparently without much trouble. Walker expects to scale about 155 pounds at weighing in time at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

A stadium, seating 24,000 people, is to be built at the University of North Carolina, through a gift of $275,000 made by William Rand Kenan, Jr., of New York, president of the Florida East Coast Railway.

ROCKNE OUTFIT VISITS TUCSON

Notre Dame Mentor Predicts Irish Will "Keep The Score Down."

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Knute Rockne, plans to send an eleven against the University of Southern California of Los Angeles Saturday "that should be able to keep the score down," he announced on his arrival here last night with a squad of more than 30 players.

The Notre Dame mentor will send his men through one practice session on the University of Arizona field today. Rockne said his team was not at its best because of injuries to five men including Parisien, first string quarterback.

Rockne will leave for Los Angeles tonight and the team will entrain tomorrow for the day's journey to the coast.

Tucson is Host.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Tucson today considered itself the football capital of the United States.

The reason was the presence in town of Coach Knute Rockne and his thirty-three fighting Irish football players from Notre Dame.

Rockne and his Ramblers are on their way to Los Angeles where next Saturday they are scheduled to battle Howard Jones' University of Southern California Trojans.

Tired From Journey.

The entire party showed the effects of their long train journey from Pittsburgh where last Saturday Notre Dame's hopes to national football honors crashed when Carnegie Tech handed the South Benders the first defeat of the 1926 season.

The whole crowd were in the highest spirits today although they were not eager to discuss Notre Dame's prospects of beating Jones' Trojans.

"We hope to hold the score down," was all that could be forced from Rockne himself.

One Day's Practice.

Due to the time consumed en route and the necessity of having to leave tomorrow morning for Los Angeles, the squad will have but one day's practice in Tucson. They were to work out on the grounds of the University of Arizona. Two practice sessions were on the schedule.

Coach Rockne, with Mrs. Rockne and his four children, will leave for Honolulu after the game Saturday. Father Pat Hagerty and Assistant Coaches H. Anderson and T. Mills will accompany them, Rockne said.

Rockne put his men through a limbering up process under a sun that was more than comfortably warm. The temperature hovered around 80 degrees and Notre Dame sweat pores were working overtime as the famous Irish romped through practice.

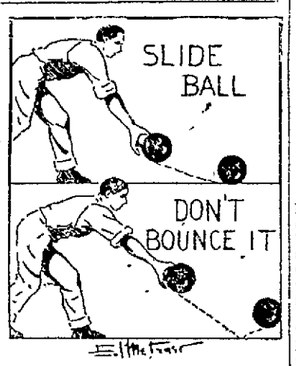

Take in the Sights.

Every precaution is being taken as to diet and water for the players. A supply of water is being carried with the team to insure against effects due to change of water.

A program of royal entertainment was on tap for the visitors this afternoon and tonight, Notre Dame alumni have taken the entire party in hand and between practice periods today showed their guests the sights of the town.

Rockne and his men will be guests at a banquet tonight.

Delivery Important Point In Bowling

BY SOL METZGER.

Jimmy Smith, the world's champion exhibition bowler, brings out an interesting point relative to delivery that bowlers sometimes overlook. It is to deliver the ball so it will slide forward or roll smoothly along the alley. If the ball is delivered so that it bounces it will not take "stuff," twist or English, call it what you may, as readily as the one that rolls from the moment it makes contact with the alley. The drawings above illustrate what we mean.

Smith gets an immediate roll to his ball by tossing it forward so that it makes contact with the alley approximately two feet in front of the foul line. As the ball leaves his hands it is about 18 inches above the alley. Most bowlers recommend that it be a foot above the alley as that insures it will not bounce.

One cause of bouncing in the ball is not leaning far enough over at the hips when delivering. Another is failure to deliver the ball at the right moment. Some bowlers hold it too long. The result is their hand is too high above the alley when they let go. Not a bad thing to remember that bowlers claim there is no appendicitis among the regular devotees of this sport. That's because the abdominal muscles get so much exercise when one bowls properly. When you do bowl get all the benefits to be derived. One such is to bend at the hips sufficiently to get your ball close to the alley as you deliver it.

Friedstrom New Midland Captain

FREMONT, Dec. 2.—Raymond Friedstrom, Oakland, Neb., junior and three letter man was elected as captain of the 1927 Midland college football team last night. He played the last two years on the first string at end and halfback. He was one of Coach Joe Calin's most dependable passers.

WAKEFIELD HAS WEIGHT MARGIN

Coach Oscar Johnson's Team To Out-Scale Tekamah In Friday Game.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

When Wakefield and Tekamah high schools clash at Wakefield Friday afternoon for the northeast Nebraska high school title and probable chance at the winner of the Gothenburg - Crete rumpus, the weight margin will be strongly in favor of the Wakefield team.

Scale figures announced by the two camps show that the Wakefield line will outweigh the Tekamah forwards by a little better than six-pound average, the bulk of the margin being centered in Center Killion of the Wakefield team who smashes the beam at 205 pounds.

The Wakefield backfield will outweigh Tekamah close to a twenty pound average and it will probably be this surplus weight in the backfield that will make the Wakefield gridders the favorites to cop the northeast banner.

Lyman Big Gainer.

The Wakefield offense is centered around Silas Lyman, 185-pound fullback who holds the Nebraska interscholastic discus record. Lyman has plenty of speed and uses his 185 pounds to good advantage through center or off tackle.

Tekamah's chances were dealt a hard blow in the Thanksgiving day game when Ned Sackett, star halfback, suffered a broken leg. Sackett was the key pin in the Tekamah attack and his loss will probably mean that Tekamah will pin most of its faith in its line to stop the Wakefield backs and watch for breaks to do its scoring. The Burt county forward wall is a formidable aggregation and rates well with any in the state. Barney and Kenneth Wagner are the outstanding members. B. Wagner is one of the best tackles in the state, while K. Wagner is an exceptional guard although lacking somewhat in weight.

The Probable Lineups.

Tekamah—	Pos.	—Wakefield
Marshall (135)	LE	L. Coe (140)
B. Wagner (162)	LT	H. Larson (150)
K. Wagner (132)	LG	Clinkenbeard(147)

Weight of backfield: Tekamah—529. Wakefield—609. Average: Tekamah—132¼. Wakefield—152.

Weight of line: Tekamah—1,042. Wakefield—1,085. Average: Tekamah—148 6-7. Wakefield—155.

WAUNETA, Neb., Dec. 2.—Wauneta high school won the Frenchman Valley football league championship this fall, scoring five victories in as many games within the conference.

Coach Irving L. Moore developed a fast and aggressive team which also carried well the conference honors in outside competition. Members of the first team were Walker and Burnham, ends; Mohler and VanDeberg, tackles; Knotwell and Nesmith, guards; Frasier, center; McCallum, quarterback; Judd and C. Terry, halfback; L. Terry, fullback.

McCallum, Walker, Mohler and Burham will be lost to the squad next fall.

Londos Wrestles Stecher To Draw

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Joe Stecher, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, last night was held to a draw for the fourth time by Jimmie Londos, Los Angeles grappler, the two meeting for the sixth time. Each gained a fall in the two hour limit.

CRETE HI TEAM TAKES IT EASY

Coach Klein's Grid Warriors Ease Up In Post-Season Workouts.

CRETE, Neb., Dec. 2.—Crete high football men took it fairly easy this afternoon, keeping in trim for the Saturday game with Gothenburg high at Hastings. The Crete gridsters practiced goal-kicks, forward passing and returning punts.

The squad finished the stiff scrimmage of the week last night when Coach Klein sent his men through a strenuous defensive workout. The team was working at smothering end runs yesterday and getting away in good shape.

The entire Crete team is in good physical trim and except for last-minute injuries, Coach Klein will be able to throw his strongest front into the Saturday game.

Flamank Chosen Mizzou Captain

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Announcement of the election of Geo. Flamank, St. Joseph, Mo., as captain of the University of Missouri's 1927 football team was made at a dinner given here last night in honor of Tiger athletes. Letters were awarded to 25 members of this year's football team.

Flamank, 190 pound fullback on the Tiger gridiron squad, was recognized by sportswriters as being one of the hardest driving backs in the conference this year. Besides being one of Missouri's greatest football men, Flamank also is a member of the varsity basketball and baseball teams, and was captain of the freshman cage squad during his first year at the university. He will play his last football season with the Tigers next year.

Valley Conference Delegates Open Fall Meeting

Valley Delegates Gather For Des Moines Meeting

Basketball Rules Discussion and Preliminary Committee Meeting Center of Attention On Thursday Program; Some Agitation To Force Schools To Book Fixed Number Grid Games.

DES MOINES, Dec. 2.—(A. P.)—Missouri Valley athletic authorities interspersed schedule dickering, rules discussed and talked of possible changes in conference meeting to be held tomorrow and Saturday.

The only matter before the coaches today was an interpretation of basketball rules but much time was devoted to informal discussion of conference problems.

A possible move to reduce the size of the conference by elimination of some of the Southern members, the new big Ten shift rules and a movement to require each conference school to schedule a full slate of conference football games, were subjects indicated by the early arrivals as likely to come up Friday and Saturday.

Talks Two Conferences.

Some of the northern conference members are said to be feel that the two Oklahoma schools have proved poor drawing cards and might be dropped from the conference to form a more composite circuit.

There is no limitation placed upon conference football games at present and some of the coaches are said to favor a definite rule, as exists in regard to basketball. Some of the schools have been arranging heavy non-conference schedules.

The football and other schedules are expected to be worked out Saturday.

Sargeant Trant Denies Dempsey Met Foul Play

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Mike Trant, Chicago detective sergeant, but more famous as the personal bodyguard of Jack Dempsey, today pooh-poohed the story that Dempsey had been poisoned just prior to entering the ring for his title bout with Gene Tunney.

"It's pure bunk," said Mike indignantly. "Wasn't I there just for the purpose of protecting the champ, and who will say that I fell down on the job?"

Trant admitted that although Dempsey was not his old self when he entered the ring, he was sure he had not been drugged or poisoned or otherwise the victim of foul play.

Five Letter Men On Merna Hi Squad

MERNA, Neb., Dec. 2.—Merna high school has five letter men in suit this basketball season. The veterans are Erwin Johnson, Ervin Johnson, Art Morow, Robert McCartney and Captain Earl Ganow McCartney is the only veteran that is not a senior.

Feb. 18—Arnold at Arnold.
Feb. 22—Anselmo at Merna.
Feb. 26—Broken Bow at Merna.

MADDEN RETURNS TO RACING GAME

King of Thoroughbred Breeders Quits Industry For First Love.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.
(Copyright 1926 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

After seven years as king of thoroughbred breeders, and after nearly a quarter of a century's ranking as a wonder of breeding wonders, John E. Madden has quit the industry.

The man who bred five Kentucky Derby winners and whose hundreds of colts and fillies have become turf immortals, has gone back to his earliest love—the racing horses.

Romance of Turf.

Madden's career is one of the romances of the turf. In his earliest youth he was an amateur boxer. Later—when he was 16 or so—he evinced a fondness for trotting horses and soon became a splendid amateur reinsman. Operating on a "shoe string" he purchased for the proverbial song, a trotter that was considered "just hopeless" by the experts. Madden carefully and painstaking trained the horses and the gee gee rewarded him by flashing speed that won many races for Madden.

Eventually Madden bought another 'no good trotter." And again he worked a miracle by making a sensational winner out of the condemned animal. As one purchase followed another, newer success came to the youngster and before he was 26 he was a conspicuous figure in turf realms.

The Best Horse-Trader.

When Madden was 28—that was in 1888—he decided to quit the trotting game and take a whirl in the runners. His first thoroughbred was Castaway II, which colt, two years later, won the historic Brooklyn handicap. He bought other racers for small sums of money, won stakes with them and then sold them for big prices, all of which quickly earned for him the title "The best horse trader in America." year old colt, named Hamburg, to

In 1897 Madden brought a two year old colt, named Hamburg, to the races—and although nearly 30 years have rolled along under the bridges of time since then, and 1,000,000 horses have flashed their greatness, Hamburg still ranks as one of the wonder horses of all time.

Madden won $38,595 with Hamburg and then sold him to Marcus Daly for $40,000. The latter sum was put into the purchase of vast acreage in Kentucky which, in the later years, became Hamburg Place, the most famous breeding farm in the world.

String of Race Horses.

For some years after, he sold Hamburg, Madden continued as one of the foremost race horse owners in America. Again and again he made purchases that were scoffed at by some of the shrewdest horsemen in this country. They figured Maddon had been "stung." But invariably it was shown that the canny Irishman had picked up a remarkable bargain.

As time went on Madden conceived the idea of opening a breeding farm. He had the acreage in the blue grass fields of "ol' Kaintuck." And he had the money for stallions and broodmares. So he proceeded to purchase enough to permit him to start in a small way.

Scoffed at Scoffers.

Once again was Madden's judgment spoofed. Many horsemen reckoned he'd never get speed or staying powers out of the stallions and mares that he had selected for his establishment. But in all the years since then Madden has enjoyed a lot of chuckling over the discomfiture of his scoffers. For Madden and his Hamburg Place, named after the mightiest of Madden's early racers, have gained world wide fame, through their production of racing tools.

Old Rosebud, Sir Barton, Paul Jnoes, Zev, and Flying Ebony—every one a Kentucky Derby victor—were bred at Hamburg Place. So were The Finn, Captain Alcock, Audacious, Grey Lag, Inchcape, Kai Saug and a hundred others that won stake races and fortunes and everlasting turf fame.

For seven consecutive years—1919 to 1925 inclusive—the Madden breeding establishment led the world in the matter of race winners and money won. The horses he sent to the races from Hamburg Place romped home in front 3081 times and gathered in nearly $3,700,000 for their various owners.

Made a Neat Fortune.

But the kingdom of breeding world, plus the fortune he made in the operation of Hamburg Place, became, after a time an empty honor and a joyless thing for him. He wanted to get back to his first love—the racing of horses in his own colors.

Through the years that he conducted his establisment, Madden always had some horses running in his name. But they never accomplished much. He couldn't give his own time to the developing or the campaigning of them. And, furthermore, his business as breeder necessitated his selling the best of his yearlings.

"The real thrill in the game, after all," says Madden, "comes in seeing your own horse racing through the stretch and carrying your colors to victory. That's the sweetest, finest thing in the turf world. It's been a long, long time since I've had such thrills—and I want to live them again. So that's why I sold out my breeding interests, abandoned Hamburg Place as a horse farm and am going back into the operating of a stable in a real way."

All of which means that the monopoly on victories in racing classics which for so long have been held by Harry Payne Whitney, E. R. Bradley, Harry Sinclair, the Riddle Farms and others seems destined to be broken by the determined comeback of the retiring "King of Breeders."

BENCH MANAGER BETTER WINNER

Records Show Player Pilots Not So Successful In Winning Pennants.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.
(Copyright, 1926, King Features Syndicate Inc.)

Bench managers are again far in the majority in big league ball dom. And that perhaps is because the magnates, having tried out quite a few of the players as leaders, have concluded that no one can do two things at the same time and do both of 'em perfectly.

A review of what's transpered in big league balldom since after 1904 shows that in those 22 years the bench pilots have garnered a preponderance of flags. Here's the story in figures:

National League.

Flags won by bench managers—16.
By player managers—6.
Division is as follows:
Bench managers—John McGraw (9), Pat Moran, (2), George Stallings (1), Bill McKechnie (1), Fred Mitchell (1), Wilbert Robinson (2).
Player managers—Frank Chance (4), Fred Clarke (1), Rogers Hornsby (1).

American League.

Flags won by bench managers, 15.
By player managers, 7.
Bench managers—Connie Mack (5), Miller Huggins (4), Hugh Jennings (3) Kid Gleason (1) Clarence Howland (1) Ed. Barrow (1).
Player managers—Fielder Jones (1), Garland Stahl (1), Tris Speaker (1), Stanley Harris (2), Bill Carrigan (2).
However, however, however——
When it comes to world series success, in ratio to numbers involved, and all that, the player manager mages the bench manager look very, very, woozy.

Different In Series.

Only once in world series history did an American league player manager fail to win the top honors of balldom. That was in 1925 when the senators, led by Stanley Harris, were nosed out in the seventh game by the bench-managed Pirates.

In 1924 Harris carried his team along to world's championship glory. Carrigan won two world's championships for the Red Sox; Speaker, Stahl and Jones also won in the world series battling, and each, like Carrigan and Harris,—but with the exception of Jones—was opposed by a bench manager.

Chance, a player-manager, lost in 1906—but to a player-manager in the person of Jones of the White Sox. In 1907 and 1908 Chance won from a bench manager. In 1910 he lost to a bench manager, Connie Mack, of the Athletes. Clarke in 1909 and Hornsby in 1925 both player managers, won their series from bench managers.

All of which might indicate that when the next world series dashes around it might be advisable to learn which team is directed by a player manager—and bet that way.

Gives 10,000 Golf Lessons.

Out in the sunkist region of the Pacific coast, there's a golfing "pro" who perhaps holds a world's record in the matter of teaching the ambitious how to smite a golluf ball hither and yon.

Joe Norwood, in a mere four year and six months, has exuded more than 10,000 lessons, of 30 minutes each, as tutor of a club near Los Angeles. That means about 2222 per year, or an average of nearly six lessons every day through all that time.

Norwood, who has gathered in more than $20,000, for his teaching, and whose pupils have ranged from 8 to 80 years in the matter of age, says that the greatest fault of all beginners is the tendency to slice.

Chicago's "Big Parade."

Cholly Comiskey, that dear, dear fellow of saintly mein, is still possessed of his old habit of changing White Sox managers with almost the same speed that he changes his shirts.

Now that he's chased Eddie Collins out into the cold, cold world, it has opened the doors of opportunity to someone else to get himself hired—and then fired—as a white hosed leader.

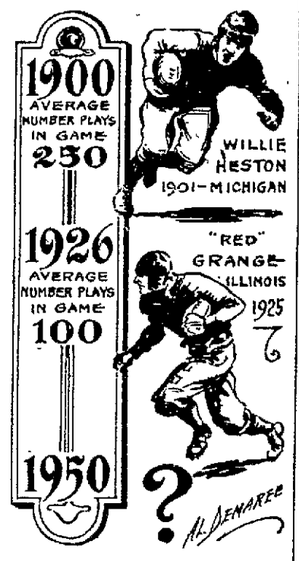

The old saying has it that "into every life some rain must fall and to this adage is added a newer one about "into the life of each White Sox Manager an ax must fall." So many already have fallen out Chicago way that the eardrums of the populace are near to splitting point because of the thud-thud-of them.

Ex-Managers By Score.

The White Sox now are possessed of almost as many ex-managers as the famous Mr. Heinz is possessed of pickles. Here are the names of those who have handled one or another of the Comiskey teams, with Comiskey himself topping the list as first leader.

Charles Comiskey, Clarke Griffith, Fielder Jones, George Davis, Jimmy Callahan, Clarence Rowland, Kid Gleason, John Evers, Frank Chance, Eddie Collins.

Hundred Plays Split 60-40 In Football Game

BY AL DEMAREE.

The number of plays used in a football game has been growing less and less until today with the open game and the huddle system there is less than half the average number of plays used than twenty-five years ago.

Today the average number of plays started in a game is about one hundred, the winning team using about sixty and the loser about forty. The discrepancy between the winner and loser is accounted for by the fact that the stronger eleven is in possession of the ball about two-thirds of the time.

In the old days when a team was alloyed three downs to gain five yards two hundred and fifty plays were not unusual and players like Willie Heston of Michigan would carry the ball over sixty times in one game.

The best backs in modern football, like Red Grange, will seldom carry the ball over thirty times in any one game. (Copyright, 1926, Publishers Syndicate.)

Football is said to be one of the oldest of outdoor sports. The game became a national pastime in England in 1650. It was played in American colleges as early as 1800. The first intercollegiate game was played in 1869 between Princeton and Rutgers.

WOULD CURTAIL LANDIS' POWERS

Major Leagues May Clash Over Re-election Of Commissioner.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Indications of a possible effort to curtail the power of Commissioner Landis are contained in a statement by Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees.

"I am in favor of continuing Landis in office," he says, "but I have in mind a plan that both leagues appoint committees of three men to revise the major-minor league argument and the agreement with Landis. Such changes as they recommend can be reported back to all the club owners next spring, who can then adopt them and re-elect the commissioner."

National league magnates have indicated their desire to return Landis to office for seven years at the coming meeting, although his term does not expire until Nov 20, 1927. The heads of the older circuit seek no change in the conditions under which Landis now rules organized baseball.

Ruppert said he believed he would have the backing of the majority of American league owners in opposing the election of Landis in December. "I think next winter is the proper time to consider re-election," he explained, "While it is true that his term may expire in to cal la joint meeting at any time he sees fit.

Suzanne Plans Try At Movies

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Suzanne Lenglen is to be the heroine of a motion picture built around a thrilling tennis game, according to C. C. Pyle, her manager, who left today for the Pacific coast to arrange for appearances of the French star.

Maloney-Diener Feature Event Heavy Tourney

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—More "eliminating" in Tex Rickard's tournament to produce a challenger for the heavyweight title of Gene Tunney is in store at Madison Square garden tonight.

Eight husky battlers are on a card that features the meeting of Jim Maloney, Boston slugger, and Franz Diener, of Germany. The four bouts are scheduled for ten rounds each.

Maloney, fresh from three straight knockout victories, is a 2-1 favorite.

Jack Demave of Hoboken, N. J., meets Sandy Seifert of Pittsburgh, Charles Anderson of Chicago, tackles Arthur Dekuh of New York and Art Wiegand of Buffalo, meets Al Rood of New York.

Roberts Tackles Dundee.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(INS)—High explosives were expected to be touched off here next Saturday when Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight fighter, and Eddie Roberts, of Tacoma, meet in a ten-round bout. Both men pack heavy artillery. Dundee surprised the fistic world recently by scoring a technical knockout over Mickey Walker, former welter king. Roberts has been bowling over his opponents with startling regularity.

Sterling Girls Have Busy Slate

STERLING, Neb., Dec. 2.—The Sterling high school girls basket ball team won 12 of 13 games last year and is starting out this season with a veteran team, expecting to make an excellent showing.

Mrs. Edna Warnke is coaching the girls. Supt. D. H. Weber is anxious to hear from any teams that would like to schedule games on open dates. The schedule:

Dec. 3—Lewiston.

Fans Insist Officials Guilty Of Oversight In Tilt With Navy.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

Navy, which went into the Army game as an unbeaten team, is credited with a 10 to 7 triumph over Georgetown. But there are many folks alive today who insist that the real score of that combat was Georgetown, 7; Navy, 3.

And this is the story, as it was told by those who were "on top of the play:

"In the third period Shapley, a Navy back, received the ball on the Georgetown's 40-yard line. He started around an end. Thompson, a Georgetown back, knocked him out of bounds. In doing so, Thompson fell directly on the goal line and when he (Thompson) got up the evidence that he had pushed Shapley out of bounds showed on his jersey through the medium of chalk marks that had come from his falling on the boundary.

Feared 15-Yard Penalty.

"When Shapley was pushed out of bounds, he came right back into bounds again and loping past almost the entire Georgetown team ran down the field unmolested and crossed the goal line. When he was making his run, after going out of bounds, Nork and O'Neil, two of the Georgetown players, whom he almost brushed in passing, made no effort to tackle him because they saw him pushed over the boundary and did not want to incur a 15-yard penalty by tackling a runner who has gone out of bounds.

"Even while Shapley was running down the field, the linesmen took their rods and seemed about to plant them in the ground at the point where Shapley had gone out of bounds.

Georgetown Protests.

Georgetown was assembling at that point for a new lineup when to the astonishment of the crowd, it was noticed that Field Judge H. J. O'Brien, of Swarthmore, was motioning from back of the Georgetown line that he was giving Navy a touchdown on the play.

"Georgetown entered a vigorous protest but Bill Hollenback, of Penn., the referee, told them to shut up and accept the ruling or suffer a penalty.

"At the time Georgetown was leading Navy 7 to 0. Later Navy scord a field goal, making the final score 10 to 7 favor Navy, whereas the score, without that touchdown by Shapley would have been Georgetown, 7; Navy, 3."

COLUMBUS, O.—Baseball fans here today were optimistic in the expectation that within the next ten days, owners of the Cincinnati Reds will purchase the Columbus team of the American Association.

Extra Periods In Grid Game

PUEBLO, Co.o., Dec. 2.—Canon City high's Tigers are football champions of southern Colorado by virtue of their 6-0 victory Tuesday over La Junta, last year's state champions.

What a battle it was to win the right to represent the southern half of the state in the title race. Thanksgiving day, at La Junta, Canon City and La Junta fought through a regulation 4-period game without a score being registered. Then the state athletic board ruled that the two teams should meet Tuesday at Pueblo Central's field on neutral ground. The board provided that four extra six-minute periods should be played in case the regular game again ended in a tie.

The regular contest of twelve-minute periods ended Tuesday without either eleven counting. After a short rest interval, the two teams resumed their marathon grid battle.

Canon City counted a touchdown in the second period. The third and fourth periods went scoreless, returning Canon City the winner.

Alabama Seeks Permission To Play On Coast

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 2.—(I.N.S.)—Football mentors from all over Dixie were here today for the annual session of the Southern Association of football coaches this afternoon.

Outstanding in the matters to come before the conference is the request of University of Alabama to participate in the tournament of roses at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's day, meeting Stanford university.

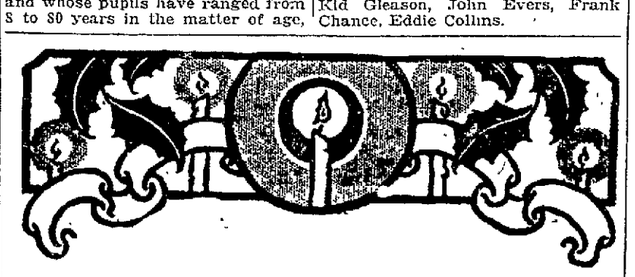

The necessary permission will be readily forthcoming, it wa believed.

Warner Praises Alabama Eleven

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—"Alabama's 1926 eleven is one of the greatest football teams in the country, and is fully as good as the squad that beat Washington last year."

Coming from the lips of Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, Stanford coach, as he dropped off the train today in company with Tad Jones, Yale mentor, the above remark forecasts a football "battle of the century" at Pasadena New Year's day.

MASON CITY, Ia.—Jerry Lasker of Kansas City sustained a fractured jaw bone when he was knocked out in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout by Eddie Morris, Sioux City middleweight.

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.

Predictions of unwelcome rain in Argentina, together with reduced estimates of the Argentine exportable surplus led to upturns today in wheat prices here. Besides, mills were buying wheat at Minneapolis. Earlier, however, the wheat market here was temporarily influenced by unexpected weakness of Liverpool quotations and by reports of fine weather in Argentina.

Indications of something of a pause in export demand for North American wheat were noted today. The apparent halt was ascribed in some quarters to anticipation of lower ocean freight rates. Besides, a good deal of notice was being taken of current estimates of exportable wheat surpluses in producing countries and of deductions that world supplies exceed the world requirements by fully 100,000,000 bushels.

Many corn traders today were giving renewed attention to the present large stock of corn in Chicago and to the movement of new corn pending. On the other hand, there was talk that the merchantable crop is about a million bushels less than the ten year average and that the hog feeding ratio is the highest ever known.

Corn again showed considerable strength and advanced in the face of profit-taking induced by a bulge of around four cents from inside figures of Tuesday. The undertone was decidedly strong, with prices in new ground on the present upturns. Further short covering was in evidence. Sentiment was much less than of late and commission houses had fair buying orders on the setbacks. Country offerings were slightly larger, with around 50,000 bushels booked to arrive.

The spot corn trading basis was slightly easier, Argentine corn shipments of 6,600,000 bushels were forecast, against 4,652,000 bushels the previous week and 2,788,000 bushels last year.

Oats were firmer with other grain. Minneapolis reported 2,000,000 bushels of oats sold for shipment. Charters made here for 400,000 bu-hels of oats for winter storage at Buffalo.

Provisions firmer, with short covering in lard on the larger decrease in stocks than expected.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.

Heavy reinvestment of year end dividend and interest payments was believed to be responsible, in part, for the sharp upward movement in today's stock market. Buying orders were spread over an unusually broad list, with a score issues again being elevated to new record high levels. Lowering of call money rates from 5½ to 4½ per cent stimulated activity by pools.

Placing of the Fleischmann common stock on a $3 annual basis in 1927 and unofficial reports that mill operations of the U. S. Steel corporation were substantially above the figures reported earlier in the week by the trade reviews, also had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment. U. S. Steel common, Baldwin, General Motors and allied chemical all were prominent in the upswing, selling 2 o. more points above yesterday's final quotations.

With railroad earnings this year expected to break all records and no appreciable diminution of the heavy volume of traffic in sight, a good investment demand developed for the common stocks of first class carriers. The rise in the Van Swearinger issue revived rumors of an early announcement of the revised merger plan.

Heavy accumulation of Chrysler at advancing prices featured the motor group, which is beginning to discount sales of new models. Oils were bought on the strength of large current earnings. Burroughs Adding machine jumped 7½ points on the announcement of the directors' intention to declare a 33⅓ per cent stock dividend. National Lead jumped over six points, Iron Products 5, South Porto Rican Sugar four.

Renewed buying of the oil shares, especially Atlantic refining and Phillips Petroleum, imparted a firm tone to initial stock dealings today. Large orders also were executed for Chemical, motor and mercantile issues, Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central led an advance in the rail stocks.

The closing was firm Total sales approximated 1,700,000 shares.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP) — Shippers were talking today about the Great Lakes season closing at once because of ice and bad weather accompanying the current cold wave. Concluding of the lake season would close one channel for relieving badly congested grain storages.

A wheat expert cables from the Argentine that they are having too much rain, both for wheat and flax. Recently their reports from there had been decidedly optimistic.

Corn is at present showing independent strength. Bulls claim that curtailed movement from the country is the result of a basic condition.

Oats trading is tending toward bullish and 2,464,000 bushels delivered on the Chicago exchange Wednesday were quickly absorbed.

Rye is in an unusual situation. There are no great supplies at the terminals, there is less pressure from the country than usual at this season, and yet trade is only moderately active. Traders predict a better foreign demand that will help.

Woman Knocked Down By Truck

Mrs. Frances Kappeller, 707 North Sixth street, was hit and knocked down to the pavement today when Thomas Leeke, 20 years old, 1741 North Twenty-eighth street, put his car in reverse to make room for a street car.

The accident happened at 1:45 this afternoon at the intersection of Ninth and Q streets. Leeke was driving a light truck belonging to the University Publishing Co. east on Q street and stopped at the corner to permit a street car to pass. Since there was not room for the the car to proceed Leeke backed his truck, only about two yards, he says, and Mrs. Kappeller who was walking behind the auto was struck.

The woman was taken to her home in Castle, Roper and Matthew's ambulance and treated by Dr. C. C. Hickman. Her injuries were not serious and consisted of a cut on the back of her head and a sprained ankle.

BALTIMORE, Md.—(AP)—Mothers who give their children proper instruction during the preschool period are greater teachers than college professors, Dr. Patty S. Hill of New York, told more than 1,200 delegates and guests at the national conference of the Child Study association of America here Tuesday. Dr. Hill, who is professor of teachers' college, Columbia university, explained that although in the United States, the recognized school age is 6 years, the greatest formative period of the child's life is before this time.

FIRE HITS LEGATION.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Dec. 2.—(I. N. S.)—Fire today did considerable damage to the American legation here, and several firemen were injured in their efforts to check the flames. Valuable art objects in the legation were destroyed.

LONG SEARCH FOR MISSING GIRL AT END

father visited Erdman Olson at Gale college, Galesville, and urged him to marry his daughter and promised them a home on his farm.

The 18-year-old boy, according to Olson, desired to defer the marriage, and on September 27 left school. He has not been seen since.

Stumbles Over Loose Dirt.

Thirty men, part of the searching party of 1,000 from Crawford county villages, who started out at daybreak to comb the hilly country, penetrated the depths of the woods near the Olson farm.

One of the men stumbled and found that he had caught his foot in twigs which were spread over loose dirt. He called to the others and they removed the boughs and leaves and started digging in the loose earth.

After removing considerable dirt, they sighted the head of the girl and drew her body out of the grave.

The body was taekn to Prairie Du Chien.

When the young woman, who was 22 years old, disappeared from her home the night of September 9, leaving a note saying she would be back in a few days "with a surprise," her father surmised she had gone away to marry young Olson, who was 18 years old. The families are not related.

Says Not Erdman Olson.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Sheriff Sherwood of Grant county, today sent word to Dwight, Ill., that the suspect held there on suspicion that he is Erdman Olson, wanted for the murder of Clara Olson, was the wrong man. Sherwood declared that the description of the prisoner wired from Dwight does not fit that of Olson in important particulars.

Young Suspect Taken.

DWIGHT, Ill., Dec. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—A young man who said he is Walter Christianson of Porter, Wis., is held here today in the city jail suspected of being Erdman Olson of Prairie Du Chien, Wis., sought on a warrant charging him with the murder of Clara Olson, to whom he had been attentive.

The prisoner, who appears to be 20 years old, has been husking corn in this neighborhood for the last three weeks. He was picked up on suspicion last night by two highway patrolmen, Logan Metcham and Harold Davis, who notified the Prairie Du Chien authorities.

In many ways the youth answers the description of young Olson, Dwight authorities said. He said he had formerly attended school in Austin, Wis., and had been away from home about two months, but was inclined to be non-commital. He had been in Minneapolis and Muskegon, Mich., before he came here, he said.

The local authorities are awaiting the arrival of a highway sergeant from Kankakee, and also word from Wisconsin concerning the youth.

Begin Search at Daybreak.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. —2.—(By the Associated Press.)— With only the premonition of a bereaved father as assurance that his daughter is dead, former service men, farmers and business men, 1,000 strong, started a search at daybreak today for the body of Clara Olson, missing since September 9 from her Crawford county farm home.

The hunt for the body of the girl started at 6:30 Thursday morning from Stony Point, a mile and a half from the farm home of Chris Olson, from whose threshhold the daughter stepped September 9 to "get a breath of fresh air," and has not been seen since.

From dawn to darkness the men, recruited from many villages and vocations, planned to tramp over the rough country of this southwestern Wisconsin country in the first extensive hunt for he missing girl. They were led by Sheriff Harry Sherwood and trained ex-service men.

As the hunt started Sheriff Sherwood received a message from Dwight, Ill., saying a youth believed to be Erdman Olson wanted on a murder warrant in the girl's supposed death, was held there. Olson, 18-year-old son of Albert Olson, wealthy tobacco raiser, living near Rising Sun, is charged in a complaint by Chris Olson with slaying his daughter.

HOLD PAIR OF RUNAWAY GIRLS

They were registering as seniors when Detective Meyer walked into the office. He had seen a Kansas Ford coupe outside, and had decided to investigate, since police Wednesday received word from Concordia officers that the girls were probably in Lincoln.

Asked about the checks she is alleged to have passed in her grandmother's name, Lucille readily admitted that she had cashed a number of them in Concordia. She doesn't remember how many, and she knows she passed none in Lincoln.

Lucille lived with her grandmother in Concordia. Her father and step-mother live in Kansas City. She told Police Matron Doyle that she was discontented after her father told her, on Thanksgiving day, that she could not have a new coat this winter.

Dene Walker lived in Concordia with her father. Her mother is dead. Dene had little to do with the affair except to be a partner in the scheme to run away from home Lucille said.

The two girls were held in the woman's ward at the city jail awaiting word from Concordia police.

FOR THESE REASONS:

1 It is sold to you without profit to the dealer. A cheap new car must take the depreciation of dealer's profit the day you begin to use it.

2 A good used car is still a good used car. A cheap new car is a cheap used car as soon as you begin to use it.

3 Supply and competition set the price on used cars—the factory sets the price on new cars.

THESE GOOD USED CARS—Offer thousands of miles of unusual transportation plus—the protection of our famous Used Car Pledge.

CASE—Six-Cylinder Sport Touring, 1923. Painted in a pleasing dust-proof gray. Natural finish, wood wheels. Has two new Goodrich tires, other tires all good. Motor in fine condition and not a dent or jam in the car anywhere. A real bargain in this car.

DODGE—Business Coupe, 1923, original enamel finish, in fine condition; has 4 new Racine tires; motor all gone over and in A-1 running condition.

MAXWELL—Two-Door Sedan, 1925; upholstered in genuine leather, balloon tires, Gabriel snubbers, paint good; an ideal small Sedan.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Somewhat a Pessimist.

"Just Forty" is a pessimist, I fear. Boys are all right, but it is what they become that fills her with disgust. She also wants to know why the word "petting" was coined if it means only kissing. A few years ago we "spooned." This year we pet. "Just Forty" kissed. What's the difference?

Dear Minerva: And readers, especially the younger readers. I want some definite statistics on the petting question. Please, somebody, tell me what is petting. If kissing were meant surely there would be no need of coining a new word for such old stuff, but at that I wouldn t mind knowing the exact length, breadth and thickness of a modern kiss.

My dat hter is just entering high school. So far I am her most intimate chum and I don't want to be too narrow.

My own youth wasn't spent in normal surroundings, but I never met a man who would be contented with the one little kiss he begged for. Even the most nearly decent of the "family friends" only became more dangerous when I tried appeasing them that way.

As for the boys, bless them, they were at my service without any expressions of reward. Am still hoping the boys of today are as good as in my youth, even if they will grow into rotten men.

The Morning After.

Dear Minerva: As I have been reading your Mail for some time and thinking you give such good advice I am coming to you for your advice on this subject. We went to two dances on Friday nights in succession and this had been our first dance for a long time. And at this first dance, they had lady's choice and my neighbor woman asked my husband to dance with her, which was all right with me. But on going to the second dance, my husband danced with this same woman twice that night and with me three times. But the last time he danced with me wasn't his intention, as he was going to ask another neighbor woman but she had gone to look after her babies and so therefore he asked me. So if it hadn't happened that way he would only have danced with me twice just the same as the other woman.

So when we arrived home, of course I was just a little peeved and I said to him "Why didn't you dance with Mrs. So and So instead of dancing with the other woman all the time, for she only got to dance once and that was with her husband and I think the other woman probably got to dance a dozen times. But his first excuse was that she turned him down (But she turned her husband down first) but I said that was at the first dance but he didn't seem to think that made any difference, and his second excuse was that he went over to ask her and she had gone. And I said that wasn't any way for him to do and he said I was just jealous. I said I was not. But I do say it wasn't right. Am I right or not in thinking this way?

Of course the one lady was a little better dancer than the other one. But my husband said he owed this lady a dance because she asked him to dance at the other dance. But I told him I thought that didn't make any difference but he thought it did. My husband is the kind of man that what he says or does he thinks is all right.

I didn't want to go to the dance anyway for I wasn't well and it was quite cold, but I kept still and went and I told him this morning that I hadn't felt well since and he said I was putting it on. I said I wasn't going to any more dances and he said I was jealous. There haven't been any country dances around here until just lately but really I don't think there is anything to it.

He has been using swear words to me lately. He said he didn't give a (ugly word) if I danced with a fellow all night and I said if he felt that way about it he surely didn't care much for me.

I wanted to go to the aid society meeting this afternoon in and he wanted to go to a hog sale and only having one car of course he took it and made no excuse about me not getting to go.

Well, I have another question to ask and it is very important to me and that is can you help me so I might be able to seek a better education. Of course we live in the country near a small town. I am very poor in arithmetic and grammar as you will notice in this letter. And it also bothers me a great deal to understand the meaning of many big words. And I'll assure you it makes me feel ashamed, especially out in company. For I am always afraid I might say something which would show my poor grammar. My husband is fairly well educated and sometimes I ask him what the meaning of a word is and he says with a hateful voice, "Why, don't you know that; you ought to." So I have quit asking him.

He isn't much like the man that signed himself "Distracted" who wrote to you he was willing to help his wife and make her better. If I lived in a city I would go to night school and better myself. I am past thirty-five but am willing to try. Your answer and help to this letter will be appreciated. Discouraged.

A. I'll just bet your husband is discouraged too, to go to a dance for an evening's jollification and have it end in a family quarrel.

Why is it that we wives feel called upon to show our most disagreeable sides to our husbands. Now surely, if your husband was an unmarried suitor and you felt he had devoted too much time to some other woman, you wouldn't nag him about it. No, indeed. You would put on your armor of blandishments and wiles and by being extra sweet and charming try to win from him what you considered your quota of attention and dances.

And that is the method most effective with all men, husbands inclusive.

I cannot see that your husband particularly neglected you. He evidently likes to dance and enjoys a good dancing partner. Who wouldn't?. He endeavored to do his duty by your second neighbor woman. He cannot be blamed greatly for not going to extremes to seek an opportunity to dance with her, if he does not enjoy her style of dancing.

Don't nag the man. You admit he has set opinions and considers himself pretty much all right. That is fair enough. You will be a lot happier not to seek means of pricking this balloon of self admiration, but rather to let him continue his self-satisfied way. He will annoy you, naturally. Show me the wife who is not annoyed by many of the mannerisms of her husband. And the reverse is likewise true. But after all, it is happiness you want, and happiness can surely be purchased through a bit of self repression. When you go to a party have just the jolliest, most carefree time possible and expect your husband to do likewise. Don't spoil the relaxation of the evening by an aftermath of criticism. If things happened you don't like, forget about them. And if you don't nag, he probably won't swear and will try harder to please you.

The fact that a man is married needn't bar him entirely from enjoying dancing with a woman who is a good dancer and seeking the pleasure of repartee and badinage with a woman who is quick witted and jolly.

You can greatly improve your knowledge of words and grammar through your own efforts. Buy yourself a good dictionary and when puzzled over the meaning and use of words, look them up and know them the next time you meet them. Secure a school grammar and a book on the use of English; stationer in your nearest town can order them for you. Likewise write to both the Extension Department of the University of Nebraska, and the Agricultural Department, Washington, D. C., and ask them if they have any courses which will help you.

Questions in Brief.

A request made for the song entitled "Flov Collins." Can someone supply this for "Curlylocks."

Dot: Your weight is almost ideal. Wear warm browns, tans, dull reds, burgundy, coral, creamy flesh, medium tones of blue and green.

Genevieve: Many girls who are pure blonde in childhood turn into an ashen blonde in later years. The fact that the roots and short back hair are dark shows that the growth is coming in a deeper shade than the older hairs. I would advise you to allow it to be its normal color and not try to bleach in any way. Keep it glossy and healthy by daily brushing and scalp massage.

Your correct weight is about 119 pounds. Since you are so much underweight you lack the poise that a healthy, well-developed girl should have. Your self-consciousness is due partly to your lack of social experience which will gradually remedy itself as you grow older and meet more people.

Your circulation must be very poor causing your nose to become red and your cheeks purplish. You must build up your weight to normal. Have plenty of fresh air and a moderate amount of exercise in the open.

Jean: High shoes will have a tendency to reduce excessively fleshy ankles. High kicking with toe pointed is a good exercise for making the legs and ankles shapely.

Hedges Warns to Go Slow Starting Co-op Creameries

Ill advised establishment of local plants is primarily responsible for numerous failures in the co-operative creamery movement, declared Prof. Harold Hedges of the rural economics department, state college of agriculture, in an address here today before the short course in co-operation.

Inefficient management, lack of sufficient volume of business, inadequate financing and other violations of the principles of sound business were named as contributing factors to such failures, but most of the co-operative creameries which have failed should never have been started, asserted the economist. He pointed particularly to the evils of creamery supply concerns going into communities and establishing creameries where they were unwarranted by the volume of cream available.

"Nebraska resembles North Dakota in having a scattered cow population, at least in most sections of the state," said Professor Hedges, citing 43 per cent of the causes of failure of creameries in that state as due to lack of sufficient volume through lack of cows. "Undoubtedly competition from centralizers is as severe if not more so in North Dakota, since most of the present big centralizer companies made their start in Nebraska. Consequently lack of volume has probably contributed more to failure of local co-operative creameries in Nebraska than any other factor.

"So long as cow population in Nebraska is so scattered, the centralizer type has a distinct advantage except in a few localities where dairying is conducted intensively, instead of as a side line to a general farm business. Cow population is becoming denser in many sections of the state and farmers are becoming more 'dairy-minded.' Good roads and the motor truck may extend a trade territory materially. These factors may remove the handicap of volume while retaining to a local creamery the advantage quality."

Concluded his address Professor Hedges warned dairymen not to "put too much faith in the promises of the professional promoter whose interest is in the equipment he is selling."

Increase Dairying By Using Nebraska Feed, Says Hanson

Nebraska farmers should have more cows and ship less feed to other states, Ole Hanson, of Orleans, Neb., declared in an address before today's session of the short course in co-operation at the state agricultural college.

"Why take the pasture to the cow? Why not take the cow to the pasture?" was the theme of Mr. Hanson's talking in making a plea for a greater development of dairying in Nebraska, particularly through co-operative creamery associations.

"This state ranked fourth in production of creamery butter for 1925 although it had more raw material from which to manufacture butterfat than any other state, the speaker explained, adding that Nebraska ships out about 50 per cent of her hay and alfalfa and about 25 per cent of her corn in its raw form, allowing Wisconsin and other eastern customers to convert this feed into finished dairy products which place them first in production of commodities in which Nebraska herself should excell.

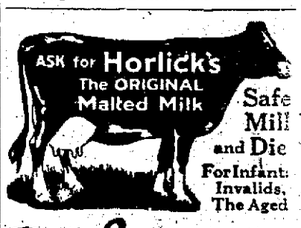

"We are helping Wisconsin to get advertised as the most wonderful dairy state in the union," he said. "We are helping them to pile up figures in statistics that very materially help them to sell their land and other real estate. In other words, we ship out a great deal of our immense agricultural production as raw material for other farmers to manufacture into a finished product and make profits from. This is certainly expensive for the Nebraska farmer.

"In 1925 Nebraska produced 300 million tons of alfalfa and 360 million tons of prairie hay. This is far more than any other state can claim. We were only surpassed in corn production by two other states. In view of these facts why should we be fourth in production of creamery butter for 1925, when in reality we had more raw material to manufacture butterfat from than any other state?

"We must adopt practical things that will serve our section," he concluded, "and that is the 'why' of the co-operative centralized creameries."

IOWA OFFICERS ON STAND.

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. —(AP)— Routine questioning of officers who participated in the eight-day search for William Boyd, a quadroon, occupied most of Wednesday's session of Boyd's trial here on a charge of slaying Deputy Sheriff Dewey Marshall, Des Moines, last October. Three deputy sheriffs were closely questioned by the prosecutor in connection with the state's contention that money had been taken from Marshall's clothing after he was slain at Boyd's home when he and Grover Grent, a Sedalia, Mo., officer, went there to arrest the quadroon on a larceny warrant issued in Missouri. They said the slain deputy usually carried money, but no direct evidence was given to bear out the testimony of Brent that Marshall had money on him at the time of the shooting.

RESCUE TOURISTS BOUND BY DRIFTS

Thirty-One Automobiles Were Trapped By Snow In Nevada.

Saved From Plight By Old Time Mushers Who Dig Way to Pass.

TONOPAH, Nev., Dec. 2.— (By the Associated Press.)—Two score or more of California bound tourists, who were trapped in a blizzard at Montgomery Pass in the high Sierras near here, are alive today only because of the heroic efforts of the old-time mushers who effected their rescue, when death seemed imminent because of cold and starvation.

The motorcar caravan, on its way to balmy southern California to spend the winter far away from snow and cold, was caught in the pass in one of the worst storms in years. There were 31 automobiles in the group.

For two days the hapless motorists remained snowbound in the pass, without food, blue with cold, and even burning trunks and other personal effects in a futile effort to escape the freezing temperature. Meanwhile Dan Haskin and Bill Farrington, veteran figures of the west, were pushing through with the motor stage to Bishop, Nev., unaware of the belcaguered tourists ahead. Even though the snow was ten feet deep in places, getting the stage through was a part of the day's work with them, and they were accomplishing their job when they came upon twenty-two of the stranded cars. Nine other machines almost covered with snow were encountered a short distance farther on.

"What did we do with them?" Haskin repeated when sought for an interview. "Well, first we broke the trail for them on to Benton, where Warren Davis, who runs a resort there, filled 'em up with turkey and trimmings.

"And then we led them to the hot springs there and helped 'em to get into the natural turkish baths to thaw out and that was all there was to it."

Uncover a Crime School, But the Police Deny All

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Published reports that a crime school, with courses arranged along college lines had been uncovered here, were denied last night by the police.

Police officials said the story of the crime school was good fiction but not up to the Dickens standard.

The school was declared in the published reports to have had class rooms and laboratories and to have sent its students on "field trips" under the direction of instructors who illustrated the best methods of thievery.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Fagan and his gang must be in San Antonio. A crime university, with blackboards, advance courses and a vocational department, was revealed here Wednesday with the arrest of two men who, police said, admitted being instructors.

One wall of the place raided was covered with slate black boards, bearing diagrams of safe locks, an illustration of how to pick pockets and similar graphics.

Police found a notebook in which an embryo thief apparently had jotted down notes of a lecture. On the first page of the book was this admonition:

"Beware of fingerprints."

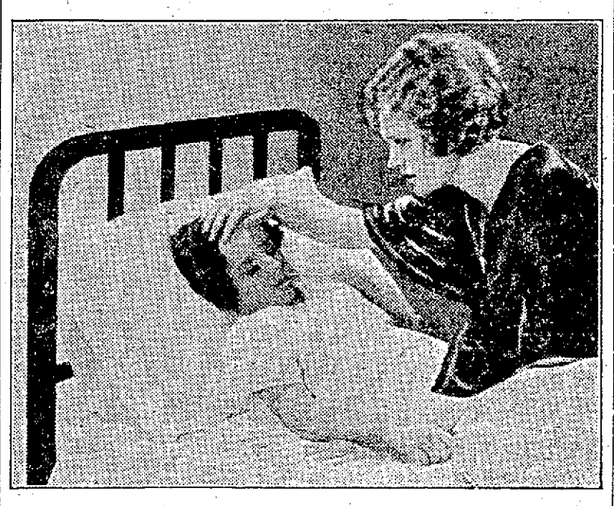

Explains 'Because'

Woman's ridiculed reason, "because" is based on intuition plus common sense! When pretty Miss Flo Meyer, 540 74th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says Black and White Peroxide (Vanishinn) Cream is "the best ever," she's ready with excellent reasons! Black and White Peroxide Vanishing Cream never draws or dries my skin, or lets my face powder cake; but becomes instantly invisible, feels soft and cooling, holds my face powder on smoothly and beautifully for hours, and shields my skin from wind and dust!"

You'd never guess its marvelous power of protection—and of flattery — until you use the pure snowy Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream, soothing as mist, whitening and refining the skin wonderfully, very potent in holding in the natural oils which keep your skin soft, youthful and lovely. You can get the generous 25c jars from dealers everywhere.

Best results come from using Black and White Skin Soap along with the Black and White Beauty Creations.

Cross, Feverish Child is Bilious or Constipated

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated or stomach sour

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, bowels

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, sold by "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.
